PENSIONERS WIN BATTLE TO SAVE VITAL BUS ROUTE

Care home campaigners' delight over minibus service

William Mata

william.mata@
hertsessexnews.co.uk

A LIFELINE bus route under threat of closure has been saved thanks to a campaign by elderly care home residents.

Last month Arriva announced their number 7 service, which connects Churchgate Street to Old Harlow and the town centre, would be axed from April 9. With the nearest other bus route stopping a 15-minute walk from Churchgate Street, elderly residents of sheltered accommodation Fitzwilliams Court in Orchard Road, Old Harlow, said they would be cut off from shops, doctors and the hospital.

Celebrated

But on Tuesday, after the pensioner's plight was highlighted in the Star, Epping Forest Community Transport (EFCT) stepped in with a minibus service which will run along a revised route.

The news has been celebrated by residents who feared they would be trapped in their homes or forced to pay for taxis.

Fitzwilliams Court resident Rene Baterip, 77, who

SUCCESS: Fitzwilliams Court have won their bus service battle organised a petition to save the bus service with husband Jim, said: "I am really grateful to the community bus for stepping in and organising this for us. It is brilliant."

"It was through the Star that encouraged the Community Bus to contact us.

We are really grateful to the Star as we are now going to get something."

Angela Canham, transport manager of EFCT, said: "We are really pleased as it makes it easier for all these people to get to town. It gives them a lifeline and independence."

"The new service would start on the week beginning April 11. It would be a different route to previous."

"It will start at Churchgate Street and will stop at Fitzwilliams Court, Old Harlow town, Old Harlow Post Office, Aldi supermarket on First Avenue, School Lane, the Leah Manning Centre, Princess Alexandra Hospital before terminating at Harlow Bus Station."

The service will run four times per day on Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday and will be free for those with a senior bus pass.

Police seek witnesses to van fatality

A WOMAN died after the vehicle she was driving hit a tree in Harlow on Monday afternoon.

The accident happened as the woman, in her 50s, drove a blue Fiat Scudo van on Abercrombie Way shortly after 4pm.

Police said she was treated by paramedics at the scene before being taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital where she died an hour later.

The road was closed for a number of hours whilst forensic investigations were carried out.

Officers are currently investigating the circumstances leading up to the accident and have asked anyone who saw what happened – but has not yet spoken to police – to contact the Serious Collision Unit on the non-emergency 101 number.

■ The name of woman had not been released as the Star went to press yesterday (Wednesday).

Dog walker may hold key to sex attack

DETECTIVES investigating a late-night sex assault on a woman near Harlow town centre want to trace a man who disturbed the attacker.

The 38-year-old victim was walking from Harlow Town station at 11.35pm last Thursday. As she reached a footpath between Fifth Avenue and Newstead Way she was grabbed from behind and pushed over.

Her assailant then assaulted her but ran away when he was disturbed by a man walking his dog in Newstead Way. The dog walker wore a baseball cap.

The attacker was 5ft 10ins tall, of medium build and possibly had dark hair. He wore a hooded top and was carrying a rucksack.

Farm volunteers plant living willow classroom

New structure takes shape following success of funding appeal

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A LIVING classroom made from willow branches has been planted at a community farm in Harlow following the success of a fundraising appeal.

Herts and Essex Community Farm in Fold Croft launched an online Crowdfunder appeal last month with a target of £500. It raised £690.

Farm co-ordinator Elliott Woollen said the classroom would be made available for use by schools, workshops and counselling groups, adding: "It shows what we as a community can achieve when we come together."

A team of volunteers spent last weekend planting the willow branches that will form the living classroom. The structure will eventually grow to form an outdoor enclosed space big enough to seat 30 children. The classroom is nestled among trees overlooking the farm.

An additional donation of £500 made by Bills Restaurant in Bishop's Stortford will be spent on a new polytunnel, providing more wheelchair-accessible raised beds and creating a herb garden.

The farm was set up in October 2013 and volunteers commit as much time as they want, with everyone taking home a share of the produce.

It also makes regular donations of fruit and vegetables to the Streets2Homes charity in Harlow. Mr Woollen said: "I'd like to thank all our volunteers for their hard work, laughter and creativity as well as all those who supported the Crowdfunder appeal and to Bills for their generous donation."

On Saturday the farm will be holding an Easter egg hunt from 11am-3pm. There will also be a barbeque and arts and craft.

Town charities among the winners at High Sheriff's Awards

TWO Harlow charities have received cash awards in recognition of roles they play in community safety and crime prevention in Essex.

Home-Start Harlow and the Alcohol & Drug Advisory Service (ADAS) were among the winners at the High Sheriff's Awards ceremony.

Home-Start Harlow, which provides family support for parents with young children who are experiencing stress and difficulties, was highly commended for the way it treats and trains volunteers. It received a cheque for £500.

ADAS received £1,000 for its work support people with an alcohol addiction.

More than 40 voluntary and community organisations were represented at the ceremony held in Chelmsford.

COMMENDED: Claire Strudwick, second left, and Donna Osbourne, second right, from Home-Start Harlow receive the award from Pauline Pickering and the High Sheriff

Trophies, certificates and grants totalling £23,541 were presented by the outgoing High Sheriff of Essex, Vincent Thompson. The grants came from the High Sheriff's Fund which is managed by the Essex Community Foundation, an independent charitable trust.

Mr Thompson said: "An important part of the role of the High Sheriff is to recognise and promote the voluntary sector; with particular emphasis on those organisations which support law and order and tackle crime and social problems." ECF chief executive Caroline Taylor, added: "We are delighted to manage the fund and work with the High Sheriff so that greater support can be given to people in the county who are tackling important issues at a local level."

Crucial bus route saved from axe by pensioners

Paying customers will be charged £3.50 for a single and £5 for a return.

Robbie Lamerton, Arriva's managing director for Hertfordshire and Essex, confirmed the operator would work with EFCT to support the service.

He hinted in an email to Harlow MP Robert Halfon the company were considering diverting one or two buses a week to cover the route.

Residents of Fitzwilliams Court held a public meeting on Friday which was attended by Mr Lamerton along with other Arriva staff, Mr Halfon and local councillors.

At the meeting Mr Lamerton said: "This is an extremely difficult situation and we do not take it lightly. The problem we have is it costs us £150,000 to run the bus and it is just not viable. It is down to money."

Concerns

"We have listened to the concerns and come to a decision."

Mrs Bateria added: "If there is not a response to the new service it will be discontinued. Our main hope was trying to get Arriva (to continue) but that seems to be a non-starter."

"At the end of the day the residents were saying it was decided before the meeting began. It is very frustrating that the people (from Arriva at the meeting) have no idea where the route is and where it goes. The man at the meeting had no idea of the wasted journey in the number 7 service. It goes through Old Road and so many other buses go along that route."

"They (Arriva) are making cuts every year it needs to be stressed that other people in Harlow may come up against a situation like this in the future, so it is vital they support us."

Resident Alice Hayes, 91, said: "I don't think they had any intention of bringing it back."

Fellow resident Ann Lawrence, 84, added: "I have not been to town in the since I have lived here because of the transport."

A full timetable for the new service will be available from www.efcommunitytransport.co.uk

TOWIE stars go on first date at town museum

ROMANCE: TOWIE stars Chloe Simms and Jonathan Clarke at Harlow Museum

VIEWERS watching Sunday's episode of the reality television show The Only Way Is Essex got a glimpse inside one of Harlow's less glitzy public attractions – the town museum.

The production crew had visited the town to film TOWIE cast members Chloe Simms and Jonathan Clarke in the the picturesque 16th century Walled Gardens during their "first date" scene.

The couple were filmed walking around the gardens before making their way inside the Muskhams Road museum to look at some of the items on displays.

Jonathan seemed particularly impressed by a replica Roman suit of armour and tried on the headpiece while quoting lines from his favourite scene in the film Gladiator.

A museum spokeswoman said: "The cast and crew were very pleasant on the day of filming, chatting with other visitors."

Man slams delay in fixing his kitchen

Disabled council tenant told to wait five years

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

A DISABLED man who has been told the crumbling kitchen units in his council home will not be replaced for at least five years has slammed the delay as ridiculous.

Father-of-three Darren Smith, 45, who suffers with arthritis and epilepsy, approached contractors Kier Harlow after cupboard doors fell off and surfaces shredded in his home in Tany's Dell.

"I moved into this new house in 2012 but my kitchen is falling to bits," he said. "Four doors have fallen off, the surface is crumbling and in one place there was just a gap where the side unit should be."

"After I complained they put an uneven unit in the space that doesn't even match the colour scheme of the rest of the kitchen. Kier has been round and seen this but did not consider there to be a problem."

ANGRY: Darren Smith in his kitchen that will not be repaired until 2021

"They sent me a letter on March 3 to say they will not be able to come and make repairs until 2021 or 2022. I cannot go on living with this kitchen."

Mr Smith's health problems mean he cannot undertake the repairs himself while his disability leaves him unable to work and afford to pay a professional.

Mr Smith said Kier has undertaken some repairs to cupboard doors but described the work as "quick fixes" which did not solve the problem. "I have been hoping to solve this for two years but nothing has been done and it is getting ridiculous," he fumed.

Cllr Rod Truan, Harlow Council's portfolio holder for housing, said that as a result of Government cuts the council had been forced to scale back its housing improvements programme.

Frustrating

"We appreciate this is frustrating for tenants but we don't have the money to replace every single kitchen. A report highlighted repairs are needed to some units and doors which will be carried out by Kier Harlow starting at the end of this month."

"As there is no major change to the overall condition of the kitchen it is still planned for complete replacement in 2021/22."

However, Mr Smith said: "I am not happy with that at all. Other people in the area have had a new kitchen fitted so why can't I?"

Discredited Tory mantra

SIR, When the knives come out in the Conservative Party we see backstabbing and bloodletting that is well beyond the capabilities of all other parties.

The EU debate, forced and unwanted academisation and just how merciless and ruthless one can get away with being when it comes to the vulnerable and those in need are just three of the issues tearing the Tories apart.

Their whole programme of propaganda for reducing austerity and deficit is being laid open as a lie. Both the Trade Unionist and Socialist Coalition and the Green Party warned of this a year ago. With the election of Jeremy Corbyn, the vast majority of the Labour Party is now in agreement that a fairer, more equal, caring and sharing anti-austerity programme is the better way forward.

Yet Robert Halfon continues in his support for disability benefit cuts and vicious education cuts that are set to see scores of local teaching assistants and non-teaching school workers pushed out of jobs.

Undoubtedly he will continue to spin stories that punitive zero hour contracts which offer no dependable income or employment rights are somehow popular and good for us because the Conservatives are, perversely, the 'Workers Party'.

And because he has access to cash beyond the means of other parties he will buy big expensive adverts in the press and sit by the road with huge meaningless placards repeating the same message.

People in Harlow are now seeing, however, that an MP who merely follows a discredited Tory mantra without question and without care for those who are currently, or soon to be, struggling is an MP who does not truly care about all the people in the town.

TTIP will be bad for UK

SIR, Whatever the arguments in favour of staying in the European Union, none outweighs the fact that to do so will mean Britain will have to abide with the Transatlantic Trade and Investment Partnership (TTIP).

This will impose upon us, along with other damaging clauses, the following:

■ The loss of well over one million jobs in Britain and Europe (a figure already admitted by the EU).

■ The ability of multi-nationals to sue sovereign governments for loss of profits.

■ The discontinuation of current product labelling showing details of content and origin.

■ The ability to replace British workers with cheap foreign labour.

■ The corresponding lowering of wages, salaries and working conditions in this country and the ignoring of established employment laws.

The TTIP is being negotiated by the EU in secretive conditions which, in itself, means that it should be treated as highly suspicious.

Roy Beale
Mark Hall Moors, Harlow

Masters of our own laws

SIR, I received a leaflet from the Labour Party in which I read Richard Howitt says we should stay in the European Union.

Is this because he believes that it is good for Harlow and the country or that so he can keep his very well paid job as a Euro MP?

I think that if we left the EU the money we would save would pay for all the other things we can't now afford and we would get back to the English way of life as the masters of our own laws.

Democracy is still with us members?

How is it fair that Labour has an advantage in a General Election because of the way the constituencies are drawn?

And how is it unfair that individuals take responsibility for ensuring they are on the Electoral Register?

The values of democracy and decency are alive and kicking, although one does feel that Ms Fournier is being selective as to how these are being applied.

Don't park on the pavement

SIR, I am writing as a resident of the town who has lived here for 47 years and who is trying to help keep Harlow a nice place to live.

I have never experienced such a 'don't care' attitude by car and van drivers. It appears that parking on the pavement is becoming the normal thing to do and I recently experienced a vehicle parked on the pavement for over a week.

It is always the same people who are the offenders. Whilst most people park and walk 100 yards, these perfectly fit individuals don't seem able to comprehend that they are causing difficulties to members of society.

I contacted the police and was told to call the council, who told me to call the police. Someone must be able to execute the law but nobody will assume responsibility.

While all this is going on, the public, the disabled and children have to walk in the road. This is not acceptable in a civilised society.

Park vandals have no shame

SIR, Every week a hardy little band of people dedicate their time and energy trying to improve Harlow Town Park for the good of the whole community.

We have received lots of positive comments from people who appreciate what we are doing but how can we make a difference when scumbags steal 50p plants, dump their babies dirty nappies and various other unwanted rubbish and try to dig up the totem pole which had been lovingly restored and painted?

Have these people no shame? They must come from a world which is very alien to the one I was brought up in.

Concern over police cuts

SIR, Having spent the past few weeks talking to people across Essex about policing, it is clear there is a real worry about policing across our county.

People know that police officers and PCSOs are disappearing from our streets and that those who still remain are therefore stretched to breaking point.

More alarming than that is residents tell me they have stopped reporting crimes such as vandalism and anti-social behaviour because they know that the police won't have the resources to deal with it.

My message to local people is whatever the crime and wherever you live, report it.

Those who are cutting police and PCSO numbers claim evidence shows their cuts are not affecting crime rates. We know that this is not true.

If we have clear and full crime data with every report of criminal activity being recorded, then we will have further evidence of the effects that the cuts to police numbers in Essex are causing to our communities.

WORKING HARD FOR HARLOW

Freezing fuel duty - for the 6th year in a row it will be frozen saving the average driver £75 a year and the average white van driver £270 a year.

Lower taxes for lower earners - the tax-free allowance will be rising to £11,500 saving the average taxpayer £1000 a year.

Helping the vulnerable - £50 billion to be spent on support for the disabled and £115 million committed to tackling homelessness and getting rough sleepers off the streets.

Supporting businesses - business rates tax will be cut, taking 600,000 small businesses out of paying business rates entirely and benefiting hundreds of Harlow families.

WELL DONE: Members of 16th Harlow Beavers and Cubs raised £1,700 for charity on a sponsored walk

Children go the extra mile for a worthy cause

YOUNGSTERS went the extra mile by taking part in a charity walk for CLIC Sargent.

The 16th Harlow Beavers and Cubs chose the charity because a cousin of one of the members has been receiving support from them for two years.

The group set themselves a target of raising £170 – the amount of an initial grant offered to families by CLIC Sargent to help meet the sudden extra costs that a cancer diagnosis can bring.

Not only did they have a lot of fun on the four-mile walk which was followed by a sleepover but they managed to raise £1,700.

Cub Scout leader Karen Hopps said: "Our children are always keen to help out in their community and are always coming up with ways to do so.

"They decided they wanted to do a sponsored hike for CLIC Sargent to help their pack mate's family.

"We as leaders are so proud to see them succeed in their venture and so brilliantly exhibit the values of scouting."

CLIC Sargent fundraising manager Karen Roberts said:

"Four miles is a long way for someone as young as six to walk but they were determined they would do it as they knew what a difference their money could make.

"If there was a badge for fundraising then they should all get one especially the young man who managed to raise a whopping £200."

Father-of-three to trek across Sahara Desert

Company boss raising funds for cancer charity

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

A DAD has said being away from his children will be as tough as the soaring temperatures when he treks across the Sahara Desert for charity.

James Doye, of Brooklane Field, Harlow, will walk 100km through the desert in November to raise money for Children with Cancer.

Mr Doye, the managing director of Chelmsford and Harlow estate agency Property Street, said: "I have wanted to do a challenge for some time and I thought this would be a real test.

"It will be very hard because of the length of walking, the temperatures and also to be away from my kids for two weeks."

Mr Doyle, who is father to three children aged 10, seven and four, will leave for Morocco on November 4 and then complete the walk from November 12-19, averaging 17-20km per day on foot.

The 35-year-old will be part of a team of 16-30 people for the trek designed by Charity Challenge, an organisation who give adventure seekers a platform to fundraise.

CHALLENGE: James Doye

The punishing weather will top 30C degrees during the day and plummet at night.

Trekkers will have to camp with basic facilities and tents, while their kit will be carried by camels. Local experts from Charity Challenge will help to guide the group.

Mr Doye has raised £500 towards his target of £2,500 and has appealed for more support.

He added: "I have been sharing it with everyone I can think of, I want people to know that I am doing it. I want to raise as much as I can. I am paying £500 myself to cover the flight.

"I have been in the gym every day to prepare doing a lot of cardio. Through the summer I will be doing a lot more hill walks. I have a charity boxing match in June to help me prepare.

"I wanted to support Children with Cancer as they fund lots of research, raise awareness and provide support for families."

■ To donate visit www.justgiving.com/James-Doye or text Doye80 followed by an amount to 70070.

Committee gives green light for change of colour

AN estate agency will not face any repercussions for changing the colour of their shop front signage before seeking planning permission.

Future Let, in Market Street, was told it its white sign to a blue and yellow design because the building is situated in the Old Harlow Conservation Area.

However, members of Harlow Council's development management committee consented to the change of colour during their meeting held last Wednesday.

Elderly woman fractures hip during cycle track mugging

POLICE are hunting a young woman who left a pensioner with a fractured hip during an attempted bag snatch in Harlow on Monday afternoon.

The 69-year-old victim was walking along the cycle track from the town centre towards The Stow at 2.25pm when she was approached from behind by a young woman.

Her assailant grabbed her handbag before pushing her to the ground, fracturing her hip. The victim was taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital where she is currently awaiting a hip replacement.

Suspect

The suspect is described as white, aged 18-20 years old, 5ft 4ins tall with brown, collar-length hair; dyed blonde near the roots.

She was wearing black and pink trainers, black jogging bottoms with pink stripes and a grey hooded top with a pink stripe on the arm.

The cycle path where the assault took place runs behind Arkwrights linking to Howard Way and police say they want to talk to anyone who was in the vicinity at the time or who has information about the identity of the woman.

Anyone with information about the incident is asked to contact PC Richard Canning at Harlow CID on the non-emergency 101 number or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Eye unit treating more patients for sight-threatening conditions

A SERVICE which checks patients for sight-threatening conditions is now available at Princess Alexandra Hospital in the evening and at weekends.

New state-of-the-art cameras and scanners purchased by the hospital's eye unit enables staff to provide swift drugs-based treatment for macular degeneration and eye conditions associated with diabetes which can cause loss of vision if not treated.

Age-related macular degeneration is the largest cause of sight loss in the developed world, with up to 70,000 new cases diagnosed annually.

Patient referrals to the hospital for the condition have increased significantly since April 2013.

Priya Prakash, clinical lead and consultant ophthalmologist at PAH, said: "With the recent developments in the eye unit, we are now able to assess, scan and treat about 150 patients a week in a single visit."

"It is an exciting step forward. We have now expanded the service and are offering evening and weekend services and cataract surgeries."

The ophthalmology department at PAH is now part of seven national and international clinical trials approved by the National Institute for Health Research.

Man who knifed pal found guilty of attempted murder

Defendant claimed he heard voices ordering him to kill his flatmate

Court Reporter

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A MAN was this week found guilty of attempting to kill his sleeping flatmate by stabbing him with a kitchen knife.

A jury of nine women and three men took five hours to convict Michael McFarlane, 60, of Halling Hill, Harlow, of attempted murder.

Judge David Turner adjourned sentence for six weeks but warned him: "It will either be a prison sentence or a hospital order. Sentencing will not be easy; it is an unusual set of facts."

During the week-long trial at Chelmsford Crown Court the jury was told that after stabbing Graham Botfield, McFarlane placed the knife in the sink, changed his clothes and left the flat.

Although the knife cut an artery in Mr Botfield's neck, he was able to raise the alarm. He was taken to hospital where he underwent an emergency blood transfusion and life-saving surgery.

McFarlane, who admitted malicious wounding but denied attempted murder, later told police he heard voices ordering him to kill Mr Botfield.

Neither McFarlane nor Mr Botfield, 53, gave evidence during the trial but the jury heard from two psychiatrists with opposing views about the defendant's mental condition at the time of the attack.

One said McFarlane suffered from paranoid schizophrenia because of his claim to have heard voices but the other said that was not enough.

Earlier, prosecutor Andrew Jackson said the central issue of the case was whether or not McFarlane was able to form the intention to kill Mr Botfield or cause him serious bodily harm.

The court was told the two men were friends and had slept on adjoining sofas in the flat they shared. The stabbing took place in the early hours of May 19, 2014.

After his arrest, McFarlane told police: "I think I've got myself in a bit of trouble in doing what I've done."

McFarlane was remanded in custody until May 9 when he will be sentenced.

Police stop 20 motorists for using mobiles while driving

TWENTY motorists were stopped by police for driving while using their mobile phones during a road safety operation in Harlow.

Officers from Essex Police's casualty reduction section, working with the Safer Essex Roads Partnership, mounted the operation last Wednesday to crack down on motoring offences and catch criminals on the county's roads.

Sixteen drivers were stopped for not wearing a seatbelt and one was for driving otherwise than in accordance with the terms of his licence.

Seized

Twelve vehicles had no valid MOT and three were seized because their drivers were not covered by appropriate insurance.

One driver was spotted failing to stop for a red traffic light, another was found to be driving a vehicle that was over the legal weight limit while three drivers were given roadside eyesight tests.

Drivers suspected of breaking the law were identified by officers using Automatic Number Plate Recognition technology before being escorted to a check site near the M11 junction at Hastingwood.

Adam Pipe, casualty reduction manager at Essex Police, said: "It is always disappointing to see that a number of drivers continue to knowingly break the law and put the safety of themselves and other road users at risk."

Special birthday card is a delight for Violet

100-year-old thrilled to receive Queen's congratulations

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A GREAT grandmother celebrating her 100th birthday this week was overjoyed to receive a card from The Queen.

Harlow resident and keen royalist Violet King, who was born on March 21, 1916, enjoyed five days of celebrations with members her family.

Great granddaughter Chelsie Cross, 20, of Ashworth Place, Harlow, said: "She was wanting to reach 100 to get a card from The Queen because she loves the Royal Family."

"When it came through the door she was so happy. She was counting down the days and she could not wait for the card to arrive."

"For her it was a milestone rather than being 100 as she didn't want to be three figures."

Mrs King grew up in Leyton but has lived in Harlow for more than 50 years after moving to the new town with her husband Frederick. Sadly he died not long after.

She has three daughters - Frances, 77, Lily, 75 and Marie, 73 - six grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

MANY HAPPY RETURNS: Violet King with the card she received from The Queen to celebrate her 100th birthday this week

Chelsie added: "She has been through a lot over the years but has always been a lady who never fails to make others laugh."

"She used to dance a lot when she was younger and had various jobs over the years from shirt pressing, to working in BHS and in a microwave factory."

"Her secret to long life would probably be her love for wine gums and brandy, which she likes before she goes to bed."

She added: "All our family visited her over five days so it was not too much for her. She got so many flowers it looks like she lives in a florist shop."

Three charged over fatal road accident

THREE people have been charged with perverting the course of justice following a road accident in which a motorcyclist from Harlow died.

Jon Aicken, 24, known to his friends as Panda, died at the scene of the collision in Tylers Road, Roydon, in the early hours of Christmas Eve in 2014.

The accident involved a BMW car which failed to stop at the scene.

Three people from Hatfield have now been charged with perverting the course of justice and will appear before Chelmsford Magistrates Court next month.

A 27-year-old woman from Hatfield has also been reported for failing to stop and failing to report offences following the collision, while a 45-year-old man from Waltham Abbey received a police caution for perverting the course of justice.

Cracking down on child exploitation

ESSEX Police has launched a campaign to raise awareness of child sexual exploitation in the county.

The countywide 'I Didn't Know' initiative aims to break down myths surrounding the issue and encourage members of the public to report their concerns.

Deputy Chief Constable Matthew Horne, said: "Young people can be exposed to exploitation in a huge variety of ways, both online and in person."

"They may not see themselves as a victim of sexual exploitation and therefore may not always come forward to tell someone."

Fundraisers ready for marathon feat

Runners hoping to raise thousands for worthy causes

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

FUNDRAISERS from Harlow are gearing up for next month's Virgin Money London Marathon.

They will be among the 36,000 runners who will lining up at the start of the 26.2-mile challenge on Sunday, April 24.

Harlow Running Club members Paul Schroder, 35, and Wendy Spring, from Copse Hill, want to raise £1,350 for VICTA which supports parents of blind children.

Mr Schroder said: "I am looking to get under four hours and also help the charity out by raising as much as possible."

To sponsor the pair visit uk.virginmoneygiving.com/team/runningmad-family.

Gift Kapswara, 40, from Staple Tye, is hoping to raise £1,000 for Street Child Africa, which help youngsters escape poverty. "The more you give me the faster

CHALLENGE: Clockwise from top left, Gift Kapswara, Paul Schroder and Wendy Spring, Brodie Clark and Chris Twiner

I will run and together we can make a difference," he said.

To support Mr Kapswara visit uk.virginmoneygiving.com/GiftKapswara.

uk.virginmoneygiving.com/GiftKapswara.

Brodie Clark, 21, from Church Langley, will be running alongside friends Chris Twiner, 35, from Great Plumtree, Harlow, and Alex King, 21, from Hunsdon. The trio have so far raised £2,200 towards their target of £3,900 for Cares4Kids.

Miss Clark said: "I am feeling a bit scared as I have never done it before."

To support her visit mydonate.bt.com/fundraisers/brodieclark94.

The London Marathon is on the bucket list of Hazel Webb, of Pytt Field, Harlow, who is hoping to raise £1,500 for Links International. Visit uk.virginmoneygiving.com/HazelWebb.

Sarah Medlock, from Harlow, is running in aid of Phab Kids. To donate visit www.justgiving.com/Sarah-Medlock1.

■ If you are running in the London Marathon, let us know how you get on by sending your details, and how much you raised, to star@hertsessexnews.co.uk.

ON YOUR MARKS: The group before they set off for their mini marathon challenge

Theatre group's marathon effort to support Catherine's mission

A THEATRE group showed their support for company member Catherine Ridge who will tackle the London Marathon next month.

Inclusive performing arts group Razed Roof, who are based at Harlow Playhouse, staged a mini marathon in the Water Gardens to help boost Catherine's sponsorship total.

The group – made up of members with and without learning difficulties – walked around the gardens and the surrounding shopping area.

"This will be my third marathon but the first one since having my son, who is now 16 months," said Catherine.

"Fitting my training in around family life has been quite challenging at times. I do most of my training with Harlow Running Club but run with my running buggy when I can't make it to the club.

"This time I have set myself the goal of breaking four hours and seem to be on track so far so I'm just hoping that I continue to remain free from illness and injury and that all goes well on the day."

To sponsor Catherine, visit uk.virginmoneygiving.com/CatherineRidge.

■ Razed Roof will perform their latest production Brave New Food by Judith Johnson in the main auditorium at Harlow Playhouse on Thursday, May 12. For tickets and more information, visit www.playhouseharlow.com.

Village post office to stay open longer after shop move

THE post office in North Weald will move to new premises with extended opening hours next month.

It will be relocated to Bassett News, in High Road, as part of a major modernisation programme across the network.

Services will be provided from Monday to Saturday from 7am-5pm and on Sunday from 7am-1pm.

The current branch at 38 High Road will close for the final time on Thursday, April 28. The new branch will open for business at 1pm on Friday, April 29.

Regional manager Will Russell said: "We are making it easier for customers to get their cash, send and collect their mail and do their banking because we know how important these services are to local residents."

"We are confident that this vibrant new-style Post Office at the heart of the local community will meet customer needs."

Before the new post office opens, a permanent ramp will be installed at the entrance to the shop to provide ease of access for customers.

Matt plans cross-country trek for cancer charities

Estate agency boss in training for coast-to-coast challenge

star@hertsexnews.co.uk

THE co-founder of an estate agency business in Old Harlow is hoping to raise thousands of pounds for charity by completing the Coast-to-Coast Walk in just 12 days.

Matt Dixon, one of the owners of Geofrey Matthew Estates in High Street, is currently preparing for the 197-mile challenge which he will start next month.

He will set off from St Bees on the Cumbrian coast on April 25, heading east along a route which will take him through the Lake District, the Yorkshire Dales and the North Yorkshire Moors before, arriving at his destination of Robin Hood's Bay near Whitby on the North Sea coast on May 7.

Along the way he will pass through 13 towns and some of the UK's most spectacular landscapes.

His aim is to raise £12,000 for Macmillan Cancer Support and Cancer Research.

Community

"I'm raising money for two charities which are very close to my heart," said father-of-one Matt, 44, of Puffers Green, Harlow. "I'd love the whole community to get behind me as much as possible."

Matt is no stranger to long-distance walking. He has previously walked the Inca trail in the Andes and two years ago completed the Camino trail in Spain, raising £17,000 for Macmillan.

"I always love a challenge in business and in my personal life," he said. "My goal is to raise more money for my chosen charities and I am very much looking forward to the walk which will challenge my capability."

"Cancer research is very close to my heart and thousands of people around the world. I believe such a small donation could potentially put a stop to this heartbreaking illness."

He has been in training for the cross-country trek for several weeks. "I'll be stepping it up to ensure my workouts are as intense as they can be," he added. "Even the shorter daily distances will be challenging as they will be along the hilly routes."

Matt will be accompanied on the walk by Heath Greenall, chairman and managing director of car dealership Gates.

Meanwhile, staff at Matt's business have already been holding fundraising events to support him. A curry night was held at the Raj Lodge in Old Harlow and two coffee mornings are planned to take place at the firm's Stevenage branch next month.

A third coffee morning at the opening of a new office in Old Harlow which is scheduled to take place a week after Matt returns.

"I hope to complete the challenge as successfully as I can," he said. "I appreciate every donation as every single penny counts."

Swift response to return of the Midnight Walk

SUPPORT: Sue Barclay, Sophie Barclay-Betts and Emma Barclay with mascots Clare Bear and Barnsey Bear

MORE than 100 people have already signed up for this summer's Midnight Walk in Harlow.

Entries have been flooding in for St Clare Hospice's neon-themed fundraiser which is returning after a year's absence. Since last Monday's launch, people have been snapping up the early bird offer of two adult tickets for £30, available to the first 200 applicants.

Event organiser Jade Clarke said: "We are so excited to be bringing the Midnight Walk back to Harlow after a year out. Our supporters really missed the event last year and so we are determined to make it bigger and better than ever before."

"We will be lighting up the night with our neon tuts and glowsticks, walking in memory of the loved ones we have lost and raising vital funds so St Clare can continue to be there for families in need in the future."

Offer

She added: "Sign-ups in the first week of ticket sales have been flooding in but there is still a chance to grab our two-for-£30 offer."

Walkers can take their pick from a 5km or 10km route, with both starting from The Water Gardens at 11pm on Saturday, July 2. Registration will start at 9pm and there will be a warm-up dance routine from PureGym and Clubbercise Harlow.

The hospice is also looking for people who want to be involved in the event but do not want to take part in the walk.

"We will need more than 60 marshals around the route as well as kind-hearted volunteers to help with registration and handing out goodie bags," said Jade. "Please get in touch if you could lend a hand."

The Midnight Walk is being sponsored by Barnes and Partners with media support from the Star and Heart Radio.

■ To register to take part, visit <http://stclarehospice.org.uk/event/midnight-walk-2016>, call (01279) 773756 or email jade.clarke@stclarehospice.org.uk. Registration forms are also available from the hospice reception in Hastingwood and at all its charity shops.

DONATION: Kisses4Kids hand over the cheque to PAH

Charity's £3k donation to help hospital

A CHARITY has answered the pleas of a hospital by donating more than £3,000.

Kisses4Kids has given the money to Princess Alexandra Hospital in Harlow to enable staff to buy a second AccuVein machine which helps medics pinpoint a vein.

A spokesman for Princess

Alexandra Hospital Charity said: "It's brilliant that Kisses4Kids, which does so much great work, chose to donate this fantastic sum to enable the children's A&E department to purchase their own AccuVein vein finder machine which really helps put the children at ease at a time of potential stress."

Last year Sara Evans and Denise Handleigh bought a machine for the children's ward but it has been in demand all over the hospital.

They decided to buy the machine as their children have spent time in hospital and it can be a stressful place.

Exact location of ticks found

Council erects fencing around part of field

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

AUTHORITIES say they have pinpointed the exact location in a Harlow field where ticks carrying a potentially fatal disease for dogs can be found.

Harlow Council has updated its advice to dog owners following tick research work carried out earlier this month.

After thorough research of the area and the collection of ticks for testing for Babesiosis by experts, the council has been able to pinpoint the exact area dog walkers should not walk their animals.

The council is, however, continuing to urge dog owners to be cautious and vigilant if they walk dogs near to this site. This is because it cannot exclude the possibility of ticks ending up on other land.

This advice follows the council's warning to dog owners issued earlier this month.

The site where ticks associated with the disease Babesiosis have been found is off Third Avenue near to the public car park on the road to Passmores House.

The council has now cordoned off the area with fencing and placed further advisory notices on the site.

The risk was identified following reports that dogs that had to be treated for Babesiosis had been walked in the area.

One local vet has reported treating four dogs and one of the dogs died. There has been a report of another dog death in the last few days.

Babesiosis is a disease that can have serious implications for dogs, and avoiding the area where ticks have been found will reduce the risk of infection. Canine babesiosis does not affect humans.

The ticks concerned are extremely rare in Britain and it is the first time that Babesia, the micro-organism causing the disease, has been found in the tick in the UK.

NO ENTRY: The area has now been cordoned off by Harlow Council

It is important that dog owners have their pets protected and regularly check their pets for ticks.

If dog owners have reason to be concerned about their pet's health or for advice about pet health and ticks, the council encourages them to seek advice from their vet.

A tick surveillance scheme is operated by Public Health England and individuals and groups are being asked to assist by sending in any ticks collected. Further information can be found at www.gov.uk/guidance/tick-surveillance-scheme.

Councillor Mark Wilkinson, portfolio holder for environment, said: "This is purely precautionary advice to dog walkers and follows information which has been passed to us by a local vet and recent research work in the area."

"We feel it is appropriate to update our advice and continue to alert dog owners of a potential issue as it is a popular area."

Easter attractions at shopping centre

A CHILDREN'S petting zoo, chocolate craft workshop and face painters will be among the Easter attractions at the Harvey Centre in Harlow this weekend.

Staff from Paradise Wildlife Park will be in the centre from 11am to 4pm on Saturday with a menagerie of animals including reptiles, ducklings, rabbits and an owl.

There will be a free craft workshop for children at which they can decorate chocolate bunnies, while face painters will be on hand to turn youngsters into their favourite Easter characters.

The Easter Bunny will be making an appearance to add some further magic to the proceedings.

The centre will also be running an Easter competition. All you have to do is take a picture of yourself at the event, and then post to Twitter using the hashtag #HarvAHappyEaster. If you show the picture and tweet to a staff member at the Kid's Club stand you will receive a crème egg.

Harvey Centre manager Bryan Young said: "Easter is one of the most popular holiday seasons and we are thrilled to have so many activities for shoppers to enjoy."

"Paradise Wildlife Park is an incredible zoo and we are very excited that they are bringing some of their most popular animals to the centre for our event."

Man, 18, charged with GBH after assault on taxi driver

A HARLOW man has been charged with causing grievous bodily harm after a taxi driver was assaulted in North Weald on Saturday.

The victim, who is in his late 60s, suffered serious facial injuries when he was attacked after dropping off passengers in High Road. He was taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital.

Daniel Bibby, 18, of Playhouse Square, Harlow, appeared before Chelmsford magistrates on Monday charged with GBH and was remanded in custody.

Two other youths who were arrested have been released on bail pending further enquiries until June 2.

Teen robbed in Town Park

A TEENAGER was assaulted and robbed of his mobile phone in Harlow Town Park.

The 16-year-old victim was walking near Pets Corner on Sunday, March 13 when he approached from behind by the robber who grabbed and shook him, causing him to drop his handset.

The robber then picked up the phone and ran off. He is described as in his early 20s, 6ft tall and of skinny build with dark brown curly hair.

Anyone with information is asked to contact DC Ryan Burgess at Harlow CID on 101.

Savour the flavour of tasty street food

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

HUNGRY shoppers in search of an Easter treat will have plenty to choose from when Harlow holds its first street food market over the bank holiday weekend.

Market Square in the town centre will be transformed into a temporary outdoor food court with stalls selling a variety of high quality, unique and specialist food and drink.

There will be no shortage of food to satisfy every taste, ranging from slow-cooked Texan-style brisket, chicken schnitzel and hot dogs with a difference to a mouthwatering range of homemade desserts, puddings and cakes.

Harlow Council has been working on the project in partnership with Peckish Catering Services, which was established last year by owner Neil Bellham with support from the business advisor at the Harlow Enterprise Hub.

"Street food markets are giving some of the best chefs and cooks a platform to do what they love, offering creativity and tastes from around the world using high-quality ingredients," said Mr Bellham.

Gourmet

"I want to bring some of that to Harlow and I'm pleased to be working with the council to offer Essex's very first Peckish Street Food Market. I have organised a range of vendors to take part who will be offering gourmet and specialist products to ensure there is something for everyone."

Also running stalls alongside Peckish will be Meat The Chef, Guerrilla Kitchen, Churros Bar and Africfood. In addition to the food and drink, the aim is to create an enjoyable family atmosphere with music entertainment taking place throughout the weekend.

Cllr Tony Durcan, the council's portfolio holder for regeneration and enterprise, said: "This is a great idea and I'm glad Peckish have chosen Harlow town centre as the location for their first Essex food market."

"From gaining business support from our partners at Harlow Enterprise Hub to organising their first market, this demonstrates that Harlow truly is an enterprise town."

■ The Peckish @ Harlow StrEAT Food Market will be in Market Square tomorrow (Friday), Saturday and Monday from 10am-4pm.

Meet Jed, the shy softie who needs somebody to love

THIS is Jed, who came into our care after being passed from pillar to post as his owners could not look after him sufficiently.

Jed is only young – we think about one year old – and he is a big softie who wants to be close to people.

He loves to run around and plays very well with other dogs and cats, but he can be very shy when he first meets new people and tends to lie down and tremble. We believe this is because of his past but after a few minutes he is back up on us feet and wanting attention.

Jed has a heart murmur which is currently not causing him any problems. If it did in later life we would see him at our clinic and contribute to any costs.

Jed just needs some one to love him and show him that not all humans will hurt him. If you feel you could offer him this, please visit our website at www.rspcastortvalley.org.uk.

■ As a branch we have to find funds to finance all the work we do. We now have a text-giving service so if you could spare a few pounds please text SVBT15 £2 or £5 to 70070, to donate that amount.

As a branch we are run completely by volunteers and every donation you make goes directly to helping animals in this area.

■ Our current vet is retiring this month and we have lots of changes to our opening hours, so please see our website for up-to-date information. At present we have a vet clinic on Thursday and Friday from 10am-1pm.

We would also like to take this opportunity to thank our vet, Carol Toze, who has been with us for more than 20 years. Without her contribution we would simply not have been able to operate.

Duck race turns Stort into the yellow river

Competition raises more than £1,300 for Guides

AN armada of plastic yellow ducks were dropped into the River Stort at Sawbridgeworth on Saturday at the start of a fundraising race.

Hundreds of spectators gathered at Sheering Mill Lock to watch what is hoped will become an annual quack-fest.

The event, which was organised by the town council in conjunction with Sawbridgeworth and High Wych Guides, saw more than 1,000 ducks released on to the water, with mayor Cllr Eric Buckmaster on hand to start the 50-metre race.

They took around 20 minutes to reach the finishing line, where Guides in kayaks waited to round them up. Prizes were given out to the 'owners' of the first three ducks.

Cllr Buckmaster said: "It was a great community effort as many of our local businesses sold tickets for the event. It was good fun and I am happy to say it raised over £1,300 for the Guides."

Cllr Buckmaster has been raising funds for the Guides during his year in office.

RANGERS CLUB

No dough for ducks

GENERATIONS of parents have been taking their children to rivers and ponds to feed the ducks, often with pieces of stale bread or cake.

But recently the number of people who have been doing so has been falling after wildlife experts warned that feeding bread to ducks is not good for them or the environment in which they live.

Uneaten soggy bread can cause a build-up of bad nutrients which encourage the growth of algae, spread disease and encourage pests such as rats.

Throwing bread into a canal or river can also create overcrowding as birds will flock to the same location in search of their doughy treat.

But according to the Canal & River Trust, which looks after 2,000 miles of waterways in England and Wales, the problem can be solved quite simply by swapping bread for healthy food that is closer to a duck's natural diet.

Peter Birch, a spokesman for the Canal and River Trust, said: "We're really pleased with the way people are changing their duck feeding habits. However, there's still work to be done and still too much bread is being dumped in the waterways."

The trust is giving away free 'quack snack' pouches and activity booklets packed with fun ideas for children and top tips on what you should feed ducks.

If you want to get one, visit <https://canalrivertrust.org.uk>.

Good food guide

■ Corn: It turns out that ducks are quite partial to sweetcorn - tinned, frozen or fresh.

■ Lettuce: As a nation we're guilty of throwing away a vast amount of lettuce. Instead, rip it into pieces and treat your local ducks.

■ Frozen peas: There's no need to cook them but make sure you defrost them first.

■ Oats: Flapjacks, rolled oats and even instant porridge oats will be a huge hit with ducks.

■ Seeds: Whether you buy bird seed or seeds from the healthy aisle in the supermarket, the ducks will be very grateful for these nutritious nibbles.

■ Rice: Wild ducks will appreciate a handful of leftover rice from a takeaway.

SUMMER DAYS . . .

WELCOME to the new edition of Education.

The start of summer means the run down to the long holidays - but there's lots of learning to do before then! It's a time of excitement and for looking ahead to possibly a new school in September.

In this edition of Education, we look at both the academic and personal challenges that students face.

Geography is a fascinating subject which fascinates students young and old, so we take a look at what this demanding course entails.

Contents

26 Focus on the Perse Foundation

The Stephen Perse Foundation is different. It prepares young people for life in an ever-changing, global and digital world. Through this global outlook, the Foundation connect students to a world of inspiring opportunities.

27 Reading into things

Despite youngsters owning a whole swathe of machinery, reading is as popular as ever. We speak to a teacher of many years' experience who has seen how the teaching of reading has come full circle.

28-29 It's a wide world

From waterfalls and glaciers to tourism and maps, geography encompasses a wide and fascinating set of subjects. We look at what is taught to our children and when - from reception to Year 11.

EDUCATION

PERSE - now for boys AND girls

The Stephen Perse Foundation is different. It prepares young people for life in an ever-changing, global and digital world. Through this global outlook, the Foundation connects students to a world of inspiring opportunities.

One of the first Apple Distinguished Schools in the UK

The Foundation are digitally-connected pioneers of technology in education and all pupils use iPads as 'virtual satchels' to enjoy seamless access to resources and unlock new ways to learn, connect, collaborate and innovate.

In addition as a digital publishing house, the Foundation shares its resources freely with teachers and children worldwide and now have over 100 freely-available iTunes U courses in 15 subject areas from KS3 and KS4, and almost 50 eBooks textbooks in 5 subject areas from KS1-4.

A Stephen Perse Foundation education is about character, about who you become

The Foundation welcomes pupils from all backgrounds with one thing in common, a shared love of learning.

This is reflected in the careers chosen by pupils when they leave. Many gain places at top universities, but the leaver destinations are as diverse as the students.

Past students include a theatre director, polar explorer, gold medalists, a British racing driver, a television presenter and founder of a Cambridge college – all high-achievers who had the confidence to follow their own path.

Sports, visual and performing arts are co-curricular – an integral part of learning Opportunities to excel in sport, on the stage or in the arts are integral to learning. The Foundation inspires young people to achieve their dreams and guide them every step of the way.

With enviable facilities to enable pupils to search out their passion pupils pursue a diverse range of activities including canoeing, golf, drama, equestrian sports, hockey, cricket, netball, football, sailing, playing in the orchestra or channelling their inner artist.

About the schools

The Stephen Perse Foundation consists of six schools that provide a complete educational pathway for girls and boys aged 3 to 18.

Led by Principal and educational thought leader Tricia Kelleher, the schools get exceptional results but, more importantly, create independent thinkers, who enter the world equipped to face life's challenges.

By celebrating diversity and collaboration in school and with the wider community the schools encourage students to choose a path that is right for them.

Focus on Dame Bradbury's School

Dame Bradbury's School in Saffron Walden is one of the six schools that makes up the Stephen Perse Foundation, for ages three through to 11 years.

A creative community where ideas, individuals and their imaginations thrive, the school prides itself on fostering an environment where there is a willingness to experiment and question, rise to challenges and get every last ounce of fun out of everything that comes the pupil's way.

Pupils can be whoever they choose – from Digital Detective to intrepid forest explorer.

The school is non-selective, but that doesn't mean they are not academic.

Children at Dame Bradbury's perform well above the national average – including to an excellent level in sport – and enjoy a rich intellectual and social mix.

In addition following a visit in October, from the Independent Schools Inspectorate (ISI), Dame Bradbury's was rated excellent in all eight report aspects.

Become a Digital Detective at Dame Bradbury's

Why not visit Dame Bradbury's on the afternoon of Saturday April 23 with your 6 and 7 year olds when they are running a Digital Detectives event. Inspire and ignite your children's enthusiasm for all things digital through:

- sessions run by HackLab using a Raspberry Pi to run programming which operates a Nerf rocket launcher;

- building mazes and race tracks with metres of guttering in the Rainey Hall;

- using programming skills to navigate a course with Spheros.

Alongside talks and workshops for parents on e-safety and apps in education.

SCHOOLCHILDREN READ ALL ABOUT IT

READING: How children are learning to get into books

AS one of the "Three R's", reading is a fundamental part of everyday life, never mind school life. We take a look at what is expected, what help is out there for slower readers, and how the reading programme has changed over the years.

What do the government guidelines say?

According to Department for Education guidelines, teachers should develop pupils' reading and writing across all subjects, teaching them to read fluently and understand fiction and non-fiction - and reading for pleasure should be encouraged.

Schools should provide library facilities and promote reading at home. This feeds into vocabulary development and writing, where reading skills can back up writing skills, spelling, punctuation and the correct use of grammar.

Reading at key stages 1 and 2 involves word reading and comprehension (which covers both listening and reading); Phonics - the understanding that the letters on the page represent the sounds in spoken words is emphasised in the earliest steps of reading lessons; Word reading with phonics involves both working out the pronunciation of unfamiliar text (decoding) and recognition of familiar printed words.

Pupils are encouraged to read widely, both fiction and non-fiction works, to develop their knowledge of themselves and the world, to establish an appreciation of reading, and to develop comprehension skills, which is the second key component of reading in schools.

Comprehension combines the knowledge children are acquiring from reading, vocabulary and grammar and their growing knowledge of the world. Comprehension skills are more broad-based as they are developed by reading and discussing a range of stories, poems and non-fiction in class with the teacher and peer group.

The reading and extension work that comprehension generates can often increase pupils' vocabulary, and it also feeds pupils' imagination to act as a springboard for creative writing and drama.

By the end of their primary education, all pupils should be able to read and understand fluently and confidently across the curriculum, and build upon those skills in secondary school.

What happens if a child has problems with reading?

If a child is having problems with reading - whether it's a parent expressing concern, a teacher being alerted to struggles in class or a child reporting difficulties that their friends don't seem to be experiencing - there is a lot that can be done.

As a good relationship between parents and schools is paramount, parents would be advised to have an initial discussion about this with the teacher, who will be able to explain if the child is falling behind and needs more intensive help.

Teachers can offer advice - and activities designed to boost both classwork and confidence - on how to support young readers at home, such as age-appropriate books and the benefits of reading aloud to children and of taking them to libraries.

It is also worth getting the child's sight and hearing tested to rule out problems there.

What about conditions such as dyslexia?

If problems with hearing, sight and concentration have been ruled out, and reading activities aren't helping as much as was hoped, a more intensive investigation may be helpful.

When parents are concerned about dyslexia - and especially if it affects another family member, as there have been suggestions that dyslexia and related conditions may run in families - they can request an assessment, which can be done by an educational psychologist or designated dyslexia teacher.

The first port of call is to have a meeting with the child's class teacher and the school's Special Educational Needs Co-Ordinator (SENCO).

If the child still has problems despite their interventions, you can ask for a referral to the local authority's educational psychologist or dyslexia specialist for an assessment.

Before the assessment, you and the school may be sent a questionnaire about the child, and the learning issues they face. The assessment proper often involves observing the child in their learning environment, discussion with key adults involved with the child's learning and tests for the child covering areas such as reading, writing, language development, vocabulary, logical reasoning, memory and organisational skills.

Afterwards, the assessors report back on the child's strengths and weaknesses, and recommend strategies to help them with difficulties. This may happen through an action plan drawn up and undertaken by their school, called an individual education plan (IEP).

If, after this, improvement still isn't made, you can request a fuller assessment of your child's development, culminating in a more formal educational plan called an Education Healthcare Plan (EHC). This shows your child's educational needs and the support required to meet them in an annually-reviewed document.

A former teacher reflects on how times have changed

MAUREEN Jackson spent over 35 years as a primary school teacher and has tutored since retiring in 2004.

Maureen says: "The philosophies on learning to read change a lot - as do the Government directives that relate to them. I have seen and used many reading strategies as a teacher; there are all sorts of approaches and all of them are good.

Memory, recognition, phonics, picture-based learning, word prediction - they all play a part.

When I started it was all phonetics-based: working around the sounds of letters and words. It's important to show children the sounds of words, it helps a lot.

Then at one point, there was a directive to say that we hadn't to do sounds - children had to read "real books" which was an approach using regular story books and concentrating on recognising the written word, rather than a specially-designed reading scheme geared to take the children through different sounds and word structures. It was great if the child responded to that and could do it, but some needed extra help.

There are basic, often-used words that children should know and recognise regardless of sounds or spelling - 30 words for the earliest year and then a more sophisticated list of 100 words. That's where memory comes in - it's important to encourage memory skills with word recognition. So there are lots of games you can play with pupils to help, and pictures are vital. Early readers, four and five-year olds, need a picture.

And now it has come full circle, and we're back to phonics. I think it all depends on the individual child which approach they respond to best.

Testing for learning difficulties is a reality for many children - but as a rule, I would say don't test for dyslexia too young. Children develop at different speeds and in different ways. Dyslexia is a broad umbrella term for differing types of learning disability - it isn't one single difficulty. And if a child is having trouble with their reading, there are many other approaches you can use before any formal tests are considered.

Testing at age four or five is counter-productive, as it may not even be relevant to the child, and all the officialdom makes parents very anxious and children very confused. Certainly wait until junior level, seven onwards, and then a learning disability may become more obvious, especially if the child is bright in other ways. They will learn ways to work round their particular problems and take the initiative for their condition, with support from experts and parents alike.

But the most important thing for primary-age children is to read every day - and if they don't want to, they should be read to every day. You want to help them to enjoy books, so don't coerce them and never make it into a chore or a bore. Read to them right from birth - even in the womb! - and give them the love of reading, of words, of books, of expression. Show them how text and pictures come together to make a story, and let their imagination develop and help them flourish."

EDUCATION

IT REALLY IS AN

TRADITIONALLY, geography lessons at school have been the initial introduction to the physical world and how humans relate to it, for both primary and secondary pupils.

According to the Department for Education, geography education should encourage pupils to be interested in the world and its people and about places, people, resources and natural and human environments, as well as the Earth's physical and human processes and how they interact.

The aim of the national curriculum for geography is to provide pupils with knowledge globally significant places, their defining physical and human characteristics and how they help explain different geographical processes, which shape key physical and human geographical features of the world; and how these features and processes depend on each other and change over time.

Pupils should also learn the skills to research, analyse and process information through fieldwork, interpret sources of geographical information, such as maps, diagrams, globes, and Geographical Information Systems (GIS), and communicate geographical data in different ways, including maps, numerical and quantitative skills.

At Key Stage 1, pupils should be learning the basics about the world, the United Kingdom and their locality. They should understand basic geographical terms relating to human and physical geography and use basic geographical skills.

Pupils should be able to name and locate the world's seven continents and five oceans, and to name, locate and identify characteristics of the countries and capital cities of the United Kingdom as well as its surrounding seas. They should learn to understand geographical similarities and differences through studying a small area of the United Kingdom, and a small area in a contrasting non-European country.

Key Stage 1 children also should cover how to identify seasonal and daily weather patterns in the United Kingdom, and where hot and cold areas of the world are in relation to the Equator and the North and South Poles.

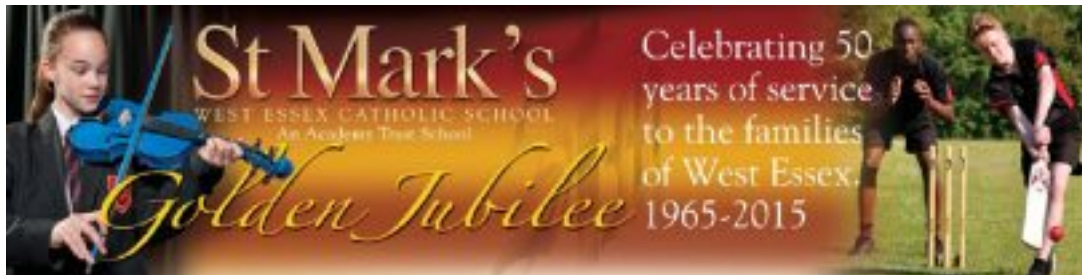

They should be familiar with basic geographical vocabulary related to physical features, such as beach, cliff, coast, forest, hill, vegetation, season and weather; and key human features, such as city, town, village, factory, harbour and port.

In lessons, they will be taught to use world maps, atlases and globes to identify the United Kingdom and its countries, as well as other countries, continents and oceans studied.

They will also learn to use simple compass directions and locational terms; to use aerial photographs and plan perspectives to recognise landmarks; to devise simple maps; with a key; and to use basic fieldwork and observational skills to study their school, its surroundings and their key human and physical features.

At Key stage 2, pupils should be taught to extend their knowledge to include the United Kingdom and Europe, North and South America. This includes the location and characteristics of various significant human and physical features across the globe.

EDUCATION

Pupils should be taught to locate different countries, focussing on Europe (including Russia) and North and South America, and their environmental regions, topographical features, physical and human characteristics and major cities. They should also do the same for regions, counties and cities of the United Kingdom, and be able to explain latitude, longitude, the equator, hemispheres, Tropics, Arctic and Antarctic Circle, the Prime/Greenwich Meridian and time zones.

They should also learn how to understand geographical similarities and differences – this comes through studying and comparing human and physical geography of regions of the United Kingdom, a European country, and North or South America.

Pupils will learn more advanced human and physical geography, including key aspects such as climate zones, rivers, mountains, volcanoes and earthquakes, and the water cycle; and types of settlement and land use, economic activity and the distribution of natural resources.

They will build on their field skills to observe, record and present the human and physical features in the local area through media such as sketch maps, graphs, and digital technology, and enrich their skills related to maps, atlases, compasses and Ordnance Survey maps to locate countries and their features and to build their knowledge of the United Kingdom and the wider world.

By Key stage 3, pupils will be extending their knowledge of the world's major countries and their physical and human features. They will learn how geographical processes co-depend to create human and physical landscapes that change over time, and discover the increasingly complex geographical systems in the world.

They should become more adept at using geographical knowledge and concepts, and broaden their skills in analysing and interpreting data sources.

Pupils should be taught to extend their knowledge and awareness of different countries, focussing on Africa, Russia, and the Middle East, and their physical and human characteristics, major cities and environmental regions, including polar and desert areas.

They will broaden their understanding of geographical similarities, differences and links between places by studying human and physical geography of a region in Africa and a region in Asia.

Key Stage 3 students will become more familiar with key processes in physical geography such as geological timescales, plate tectonics, rocks, soils, weather, climate, glaciation, hydrology and coasts; and with human geography topics such as population, urbanisation, international development; economic activity in different sectors; and use of natural resources.

This will assist them to understand how human and physical processes interact to influence landscapes, environments and climate; and how human activity impacts on functioning of natural systems.

Skills-wise, they should build on their knowledge of globes, maps and atlases, in both the classroom and in the field. They will be taught to interpret Ordnance Survey maps including using grid references and scale; and to become familiar with thematic mapping, and aerial and satellite photographs.

They will also use Geographical Information Systems (GIS) and fieldwork in diverse locations to collect, analyse and draw conclusions from multiple sources of geographical data.

SO MUCH TO SEE AND DO

As the holidays beckon, Hannah Stephenson takes some advice on how to get the kids involved in gardening tasks and the great outdoors

The Easter holidays are upon us and there's no better time than spring to engage the kids with gardening projects, or take them to outdoor places which will both inspire and delight them.

It's surely time to redress the balance of children's lack of connection with nature. Some 12 per cent of children in England have not visited a park, forest, garden or any other natural environment for at least 12 months, according to a new Government study.

So, have a look at Easter events with the National Trust (www.nationaltrust.org.uk), whether it's an Easter egg hunt, crafts, cookery or buscraft skills.

The four RHS gardens (www.rhs.org.uk) will also be holding a range of events, from Lindt Gold Bunny hunts and spring 'I-Spy' - a journey around the garden looking for spring plants, animals and equipment - to themed storytelling and birds of prey displays.

But you can also sort out simple projects in your own garden, says Matthew Appleby, deputy editor at Horticulture Week, author, garden blogger and father of two, who is concerned that children are losing touch with nature.

"I see a 'disconnect' between children and nature - largely due to the rise of the internet," he says.

"A poll by Persil found that more than half of parents encourage their children to avoid messy activities such as gardening and baking. One in three children say that they did not like getting dirty, their preferred activities being television-watching and playing on video games."

Some companies have made in-roads into tempting youngsters into the garden with their child-friendly products.

Seed Pantry, for instance, has launched a new Children's Me Seeds Starter Kit, containing seeds to grow cress, sunflowers, pumpkins and sweetcorn, as well as all the compost discs, pots and labels you need to get started (£12.50, www.seedpantry.co.uk).

There's also plenty of ideas for children's projects in Appleby's latest book, The Children's Garden. These include:

- The all-you-can eat hanging basket: The beauty of this idea is you get so many mini-projects in one basket.

Fill a lined basket with potting compost, plant a strawberry plant in the centre and add basil and dill plants round the edge. Marigolds provide edible petals and colour. Tumbling tomatoes can cascade down the sides.

Hang at children's eye level so they can feed and water.

- Plant up an old handbag or high-heeled shoe. Adults need to make a hole in the bottom, add some compost and let the child put in a plant, such as a pelargonium or chilli plant.

- Seed bombs: Seed bomb some waste ground by mixing seed, compost and dry clay powder to stick your bomb together.

- Create a miniature garden: These projects take gardening down to children's eye level and make plants seem less intimidating.

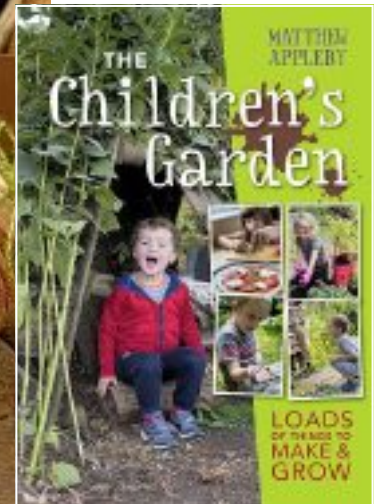

Use an old washing-up bowl or clean litter tray with some drainage holes in the base. Including children's own toys - dolls, dinosaurs or fairies - gives them a sense of ownership.

For a dinosaur garden, use prehistoric-looking plants such as small ferns and moss, plus creeping mint and thyme.

- If it rains, take growing inside. The old favourite of a cress head grown in an old pair of tights is great, but update it by using popcorn seeds. Use seeds sown on cotton wool stuffed in a pair of old tights and tied at the top. Place on a pot and water.

- The Children's Garden: Loads Of Things to Make & Grow by Matthew Appleby, is published by Frances Lincoln, priced £14.99. Available now

Perfect Elements for home

HAVING recently opened its doors, Elements Home & Gardens is Bishop's Stortford's newest store, on the site of the old VW dealership in Dane Street.

Russell and Mandy Worricker have many years of experience in the industry, having worked in a family business in Essex.

When they drove past the empty site one day, they thought it would make the ideal location for their new venture.

"We were just passing when we saw the old empty VW showroom. We'd been thinking of branching out on our own and thought this might be the ideal opportunity" said Mandy.

There is certainly a great deal of passing trade and the eye-catching Elements insignia has already got locals talking.

At the front of the shop, on what was the original forecourt, Mandy and Russell have a great deal of furniture on display, which invites passers by to call in.

Elements offers a vast selection of furniture and accessories for outdoor living. Choose from rattan, wood and aluminium furniture, as well as BBQs, parasols and more. Most items are available from stock and at very competitive prices, with free delivery.

The store is open seven days a week, 9am until 6pm, Monday to Saturday and from 10am until 4pm on Sunday.

Easter eggs on test

Over-eggccited? You just can't

Gone are the days of the simple chocolate shell, which split in two along the 'seam'. You ate one half and saved the other . . . for about half-an-hour. We checked out this year's offerings . . .

THORNTONS
Harry Hopalot 151g egg in milk chocolate, £4 - 3/5

For kids, this egg looks nice as it is complete with a cute bunny design in the middle.

The egg comes in either milk with a white chocolate bunny or vice versa which means you'll get to try two types of chocolate in one.

The taste of the egg isn't bad but it is very like advent calendar-style chocolate. On the plus side though it's not too sweet.

Fudge Cake Dessert Egg in milk chocolate, 338g, £15 - 2/5

Considering that this egg is supposed to be part of the Thorntons' more luxurious collection, the chocolate is far too sweet.

The fudge cake feature doesn't actually taste of fudge and it's hard to get any distinctive flavour from it as again, it is overwhelmingly sweet.

There are three different flavours of little chocolates that accompany the egg including chocolate fudge cake, pecan pie tart and lemon meringue, which were all just ok.

Only for those with a really sweet tooth.

MARKS AND SPENCER

Frozen White Chocolate Arendelle Castle, 220g £8, 5/5 for looks, 3/5 for taste

The white chocolate castle looks amazing and will be a huge hit with any Frozen fan so it's 5/5 based on the appearance.

The chocolate itself isn't bad as it's creamy white chocolate which isn't too sickly. The blue towers had a slightly funny smell, which again could be down to the food colouring in it.

Overall, we'd give this 3/5 for taste, but because of how brilliant it looks it gets a 5 from us.

Eggspllosion egg, 230g £6, 3/5

This egg offers the fun factor for those who don't want a plain and simple Easter egg.

It comes with two The Crazy Eggspllosion chocolate bars and then the egg itself, all of which have popping candy and popcorn in them.

The chocolate bars are really tasty and light, but are packed with butterscotch and toffee as well as the popping candy and popcorn.

The egg itself just has the popping candy and popcorn elements, and didn't taste very nice. This could have been because the chocolate is quite thin and overwhelmed by the amount of popping candy in it.

TESCO

Tesco Finest Belgian Chocolate and Orange egg, 100g £3 5/5

Smaller in size compared to others we tested, but it tasted so delicious you'd probably demolish the whole lot in one sitting.

It tastes similar to a Terry's Chocolate Orange so if you're a fan of them then you'll love this one, but this egg's chocolate is creamier and tastes quite luxurious.

It also has a nice design on the front.

Chokablock Very Merry Eton Bling Egg, 650g £10 1/5

This egg looked brilliant as it's a giant white and pink egg which has a huge Eton mess feature on the front and could make a gift for those with a major sweet tooth.

But tastewise, it was a huge let down.

The chocolate had a unpleasant taste and definitely only one for those who are fans of both white chocolate and incredibly sweet things.

The feature is made up of freeze-dried strawberries and raspberries, white chocolate balls that had been coated in a pearl colour and pink meringue drops too. Overall, too sweet and tasted very artificial and none of the testers were fans of this.

ASDA

Asda Extra Special Belgian Milk Chocolate Egg 100g, £2 4/5

This egg is a small one so it's ideal for just one person. The chocolate is nice and creamy and is quite thin so it has a great snap to it. It's got a lovely classic chocolate taste and will definitely be an all-round people pleaser.

Asda Extra Special Belgian Chocolate Salted Butterscotch and Fudge Egg 245g, £6 3/5

This egg is another one that looks great and would make a lovely Easter gift. It's adorned with pink balls, fudge and little chocolate curls which all make a huge feature on the front of the egg.

The chocolate tastes ok and the feature gives it a nice crunch, but tastes more like chocolate raisins rather than butterscotch or fudge.

The decoration looks pretty but crumbles everywhere when it is broken.

ALDI

Dairyfine Super Minis Easter Egg 347g, £2.79 3/5

This egg comes with a selection of mini treats which resemble Celebrations-type sweets.

On the whole it's a nice gift and the little chocolates can be saved for when you fancy one as they'll keep due to being wrapped.

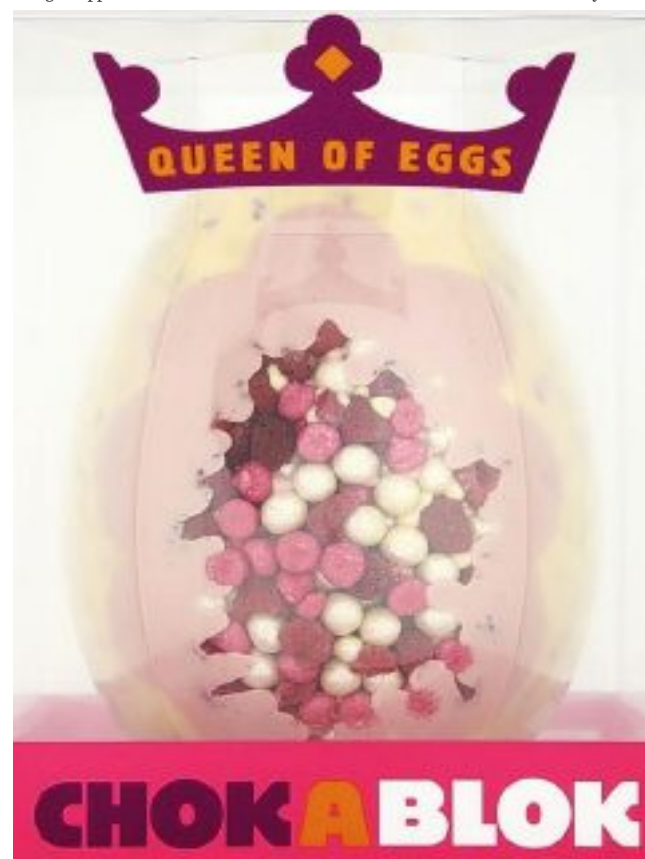

The Racer bar tastes just like Snickers and is quite moreish, the Romeo is coconut flavour similar to a Bounty and has a nice taste to it, the Jive is just like a Twix, but the Titan, which is similar to a Mars Bar, has a slight peppery taste to it which is unusual!

The egg itself is just standard milk chocolate so will please most.

Moser Roth Premium Easter Egg Banoffee Pie Easter Egg 185/195g, £2.99 2/5

The egg has a dried banana and toffee feature on the front so it certainly looks attractive.

The chocolate is quite nice and creamy but while there are plenty of toffee bits (which are actually really hard), the egg has zero banana flavour so it definitely doesn't deserve the banoffee label.

The dried banana bits add nothing to the egg which seems a nice idea, just poorly executed.

LIDL
Deluxe White Chocolate Eton Mess Easter Egg, £2.99 4/5

This white chocolate egg is exactly what you'd expect.

Creamy, smooth and very Milky Bar-like chocolate egg with a great Eton

Mess feature on the front that is packed with strawberry and meringue pieces to give it that bit of crunch and zing.

Favourina Chocolate Bunny with Bow, £1.19 5/5

This little bunny makes a great Easter treat. The chocolate is luxuriously thick, creamy and wonderfully rich.

The chocolate tastes of a high standard and as good as the more expensive Lindt bunnies.

You'll struggle not to eat the lot in one go!

SAINSBURY'S
Taste The Different Belgian White Chocolate Easter Egg with Pistachios £6 2/5

What should be a great pairing of flavours was sadly quite disappointing.

The white chocolate isn't as good as the smaller Belgian chocolate egg we tried and the flavour of pistachios is lost despite there being a generous amount of nuts throughout.

Taste The Difference Belgian Dark Chocolate with Cocoa Nibs £6 4/5

This super shiny dark chocolate egg certainly looks the part. It's also got very pretty bright yellow and pink swirls on that make it stand out.

The chocolate has a good rich taste, and the addition of crunchy cocoa nibs gives it a nice texture.

WHAT'S ON

VODOO ROOM – A NIGHT OF HENDRIX AND CREAM

Rhodes, South Road, Bishop's Stortford
Saturday, March 26 (7.30pm) £18

A tribute to two of the greatest names in rock history - Jimi Hendrix and Cream, Voodoo Room are three talented musicians who perform an incredible show in the true spirit of these legendary superstars. Forget the costumes, this is great music played by great musicians.

MOJO

Victoria Hall Theatre, Bury Road, Old Harlow
Wednesday, March 30 - Saturday, April 2 (8pm) £13/£10 concessions

Harlow Theatre Company presents a savagely funny, swaggering story set in the 1950s in the back streets and alleyways of Sohos about six terrified men, two dead bodies, a navy cutlass and a dollop of rock and roll. See article opposite.

COUNTRY SUPERSTARS

Rhodes, South Road, Bishop's Stortford
Thursday, March 31 (8pm) £18.50

Enjoy an evening of country music hosted by Sarah Jayne who has been performing as queen of country Dolly Parton for more than 22 years. The show turns back the clock to features of the most influential icons who shaped country history and the music including Patsy Cline, Johnny Cash, Billie Jo Spears, Kenny Rogers, Willie Nelson, John Denver, Garth Brooks and Tammy Wynette.

RAPUNZEL ROCKS

Harlow Playhouse
Saturday, March 26 - Thursday, March 31 (no Monday performances). £13.50-£16 (+ £1.50 per ticket)

This all-new family musical version combines the traditions of a fairytale story with new twists and rockin' music. Amanda Swift returns as Rapunzel, and Playhouse favourite Tom Swift will be back as Joey the Jester. Joining them are Jimmy Burton-Iles as the laugh-a-minute musical witch Horrorbella, Ant Payne as Silly Billy and a full supporting professional cast. Join them for an action-packed journey of betrayal, romance, daring-do and lots and lots of laughs.

PINOCCHIO

Rhodes, South Road, Bishop's Stortford
Friday, April 1 (7.30pm) £16/£14 concessions, £10 children

Ballet Theatre UK presents the tale of a wooden puppet carved from pine whose one wish is to become a real boy. Follow the cheeky marionette puppet with an unruly nose on his epic quest as he overcomes obstacles, faces consequences and even ends up in the belly of a whale to prove that dreams really do come true. Set to a stunning classical score, this original production promises to delight ballet audiences and families alike.

SNAKE DAVIS

Rhodes, South Road, Bishop's Stortford
Saturday, April 2 (8pm) £17.50

Having performed live with the likes of M-People, Eurythmics and Lisa Stansfield, UK saxophonist Snake Davis and his own band perform hits featuring classic sax solos including Baker Street, Born To Run and Yakety Yak.

THE CHAIRS

Harlow Playhouse
Sunday, April 3 (3pm). Pay what you can.

A rare opportunity to see a live performance of this groundbreaking play by Eugene Ionesco in a unique interpretation, with audio description incorporated into the live performance by Extant, the UK's leading blind and visually impaired theatre company. An elderly couple frantically prepare chairs to welcome a procession of invisible guests to their isolated home, an uncertain space where anarchy, ageing and anxiety collide. But who is the mysterious orator they all await and what will their world-changing message be?

COPPELIA

Harlow Playhouse
Thursday, April 7 & Friday, April 8 (7pm), Saturday, April 9 & Sunday, April 10 (2pm). £6.50-£13.50 (+ £1.50 per ticket)

Harlow ballet presents the most charming of all great classical ballets, a tale full of twists, turns and beautiful dancing where love triumphs over malice and mischief in this beautiful production. With the charm and magic of a forgotten era, watch a doll come to life and luxuriate in the beautiful music of Léo Delibes.

Be wowed by an Enigma

It is a fiendishly complicated machine, said Dr Mark Baldwin of the device that was crucial in winning the Second World War.

He is of course talking about the machine constructed to decipher Enigma.

For the past 20 years, the bookseller has been leading talks on the Enigma code and how it was broken.

Codebreakers – The Story of Enigma is the 71-year-old's latest workshop and tutorial, and he will visit Harlow Playhouse on Saturday, April 16. Dr Baldwin is fascinated by the intricacies and workings of the Enigma machine.

He describes his discovery of the device as having changed his life and he has now written eight books on Enigma and code breaking.

"My life changed 20 years ago when I needed to sell a book on the subject and I read it as it was something I did not know anything about at all.

"It was so interesting I started talking to people in the shop about it. It was a book that started my interest.

"Soon I wanted to talk to people in a more extended way and I thought it would be wonderful to have a machine of my own.

"They are not particularly hard to get hold of if you have the funds and the time; they do come up for sale in one place for sale. "I have known them come up on eBay before now."

But how does he make such a complicated device an engaging topic for an audience?

"I am going to explain where the Enigma machine comes from and how it works," said Mark.

"Then I'll talk about the people trying to work the machine under pressure.

"At the end of the talk, people can come and operate the machine as they wish. It's great that everyone can interact and get involved with it."

Enigma machines were invented for German use during the Second World War. They allowed an operator to type in a message and then scramble it using three to five cogs. The receiver would have knowledge of the machine's settings and would be able to see the intended message.

During the 1939-1945 war, Nazi intelligence sent many secret messages around Europe using the machine to plot war strategy. Initially, British and French forces made no progress in cracking the code.

"The Germans believed it would never be broken," said Dr Baldwin. "But, of course, it was broken by the British team at Bletchley Park led by Alan Turing."

Dr Baldwin believes that the Second World War may not have been won if it wasn't for the genius of Turing.

Through the talk he hopes to recapture and re-tell some of the high-pressure drama experienced by the men behind cracking the code.

"It was such an important part of the Second World War," added Mark.

"We will also feature one part of the war in depth, the Battle of the Atlantic. It was essential that we won that battle as we would have lost the valuable supply lines if we had lost.

"Deciphering Enigma played a key part in the victory."

His talks are in more demand than ever following the 2014 film release The Imitation Game starring Benedict Cumberbatch.

"The Imitation Game has raised the profile a lot about the Enigma code and about Turing's work. I have been doing these talks for 20 years and they are now more popular than ever."

Despite his vital contribution to the victory, Turing was not treated heroically after the war. He was convicted for homosexual activity - which was only decriminalised in 1967.

Stripped of his right to work for the Government, Turing was forced to undergo chemical castration and took his own life in 1954 at the age of 41. He received a royal pardon in 2013.

■ Codebreakers – The Story of Enigma will be performed at Harlow Playhouse on Saturday, April 16. Tickets cost £14. For bookings and more information visit www.playhouseharlow.com.

Long-distance band back for holiday gig

REDWOOD are standing tall with their debut album under their belts and an EP in the works.

The exciting five-piece are bringing their ambient rock to Burnt Mill Snooker and Social Club on Friday, April 1 following the release of their debut album Rain last year.

"We are scattered all over the place but when we come together we gel," said bass player and vocalist Conor Bond, who is from Hoddesdon.

"Most of us are studying all over the country. That first term of university was really tough.

"But we are always writing stuff and recording when we're together."

Conor met drummer Toby Fassions while at The John Warner School in Hoddesdon.

They later formed Redwood with Buntingford trio Alex Birchall, Charlie Parrott and Jamie Richards, who all play guitar and sing.

Back together again the band are recording the new EP, currently titled Different Moon, which they hope can help propel them to greater heights.

Conor added: "Right now our sound has become more ambient, with longer instrumental parts inspired by Mogwai.

"Recording is a labour of love and we want to be reaping the rewards of all the hard work we have put in."

Redwood will perform at Burnt Mill Snooker and Social Club, Edinburgh Way, Harlow on Friday, April 1. Tickets cost £6 on the door. Doors open 8pm.

Sculptor's modern take on Harlow classic piece

A MODERN interpretation of the iconic Harlow Family Group sculpture is on display in the Civic Centre.

Shoppers visiting the Harvey Centre last week were able to watch visual artist Sally Gorham at work as she created her Modern Family Group sculpture.

Using scrap materials, chicken wire and plaster, Sally said the aim of the project was make the creation of art visible to the public and at the same time stimulate questions about pieces in the town's world-famous sculpture collection.

Included in that collection is Harlow Family Group by Henry Moore, who was commissioned to make it in 1954 by Harlow Art Trust.

He chose to depict a family group which seemed appropriate at the time as Harlow had a large population of young families.

The sculpture now takes pride of place in the reception area of the Civic Centre in the Water Gardens.

Sally said: "In Modern Family Group I have included an older person in the group to represent the original pioneers who came to live in the town in the 1950s and 1960s, many of whom are still live here today. The reaction to the work has been fantastic."

Sally, who lives in Bishop's Stortford, worked in the NHS for more than 30 years before leaving the world of healthcare management to pursue her passion for art.

After initially attending painting and life-drawing classes with Roger Jeffs at Pardon Mill Gallery, she is now a full time BA Fine Art student at Central Saint Martins.

She has participated in a number of exhibitions at the Gibberd Gallery and two of her works were included in this year's Harlow Open exhibition.

Modern Family Group will be on display until the end of April.

Get your Mojo back

THE bad old days of the 1950s music industry are remembered in a play that is billed as equally hilarious and menacing.

The latest production from Harlow Theatre Company, Mojo is set in an era before Spotify and the X Factor, when pop stars were often found by gangsters and groomed by dodgy agents.

"It's a black comedy and in your face theatre," said director Jane Miles before the show which is performed at Victoria Hall Theatre from Wednesday, March 30 to Saturday, April 2.

"It is very funny but has a dark side to it. There is lots of strong content and unpredictable characters with personal problems."

Mojo, the first play written by a young Jez Butterworth, takes the audience back to the shady bars of '50s London.

"It is set in Soho on a summer's day in July," explained Jane.

"Two gangland bosses are trying to court a singer called Silver Johnny who they think could be the next Elvis and that they can get rich off him.

"But Silver Johnny disappears, the club boss comes to a sticky end and we watch six terrified men, barricade themselves in their seedy club and await their fate.

"We witness these useless young men try to deal with the problem and not know what to do."

She added: "There is music in the play but it is not a musical. There is a rock and roll feel and flavour to it. It's a time when things were beginning to change and when Elvis was top of the charts."

"Jez Butterworth is a talented playwright and he wrote Mojo when he was 24 years old and it was performed in the Royal Court Theatre.

"It is an extremely brilliant play and they had no hesitation about putting it on, even if they were taking a risk.

"It was highly well received at the time and won lots of awards. It is a fast-paced play with clever dialogue."

Over the years, the play has helped launch the careers of Ben Wishaw, Tom Hollander and Colin Morgan when performed in London.

In Harlow Theatre Company's version, Silver Jonny is played by Oliver Page and the iconic role of Baby is played by Joe Bishop.

Fast-talking double act Pops and Sweets are Mitchel Rous and Martin Colton. The troubled Micky is played by Steve Hannan and Skinny is played by Rhys Harris.

Several of the cast return from Jane's previous directed play Punk Rock, which shocked and entertained in the autumn.

"I have directed quite a few over the years," she said.

"We started rehearsing in January and I held auditions before Christmas. I always get my cast reading and studying the play.

"It has been quite challenging, but fun. We are now moving our rehearsals to the theatre.

"I am looking forward to it. I hope we created something that will be entertaining theatre. I am always nervous before a performance as to how an audience will receive it. But very often an audience will enjoy it but I never go in complacent.

"I always look to try and improve upon our previous productions."

Harlow Theatre Company perform Mojo from Wednesday, March 30 to Saturday, April 2 at Victoria Hall Theatre, Bury Road, Old Harlow. Performances start at 8pm. Tickets cost £13 or £10 for concessions.

Bunny on the case for cops

Damon Smith is very impressed with the first rabbit to make the grade on Zootopia's police force as she investigates the case of a missing otter in the Disney animation Zootropolis

Zootropolis

ANIMATION: (PG) 108 minutes

Directors: Byron Howard, Rich Moore, Jared Bush
Voices: Ginnifer Goodwin, Jason Bateman, Idris Elba, Jenny Slate, Nate Torrence, Octavia Spencer, JK Simmons

Creates great and small live in perfect harmony in Byron Howard and Rich Moore's anthropomorphic animated feature that continues Disney's winning streak under the creative leadership of John Lasseter.

Zootropolis is a beautifully crafted parable that elegantly combines a noir detective thriller, buddy cop comedy and coming of age story with the studio's trademark visual splendour.

It's a tour de force of uproarious laughter and tears, accompanied by a gorgeous genre-melding orchestral score from Michael Giacchino that tugs the heartstrings.

Screenwriters Jared Bush and Phil Johnston engineer plentiful hairpin twists and turns, mining comedy from mammalian traits while underscoring each bravura set piece with valuable life lessons about prejudice, tolerance and teamwork.

Neat visual gags abound including, a small time weasel criminal selling bootleg DVDs of Disney animations Wreck-It Rhino and Wrangled, or familiar chain stores that have been cutely rebranded for creature customers.

Zootropolis even cheekily pokes fun at Frozen's song of empowerment, Let It Go, before unleashing its own infectious anthem, Try Everything, sung to the rafters by Shakira in the guise of a chart-topping savannah diva called Gazelle.

Bunnyburrow carrot farmer Stu Hopps (voiced by Don Lake) and wife Bonnie (Bonnie Hunt) try to dissuade their daughter Judy (Ginnifer Goodwin) from pursuing her dream of becoming the first serving rabbit police officer in Zootropolis.

"If you don't try anything new, you'll never fail," chirpily professes Stu.

Unperturbed, Judy earns her police badge as part of the Mammal Inclusion Initiative championed by Mayor Leodore Lionheart (JK Simmons) and his diminutive second in command, Assistant Mayor Dawn Bellwether (Jenny Slate).

Judy is initially assigned to traffic duty by Chief Bogo (Idris Elba), who doubts her abilities.

In order to prove her worth, the new cop on the block vows to solve the case of a missing resident.

"I will give you 48 hours to find Emmitt Otterton. You strike out, you resign," growls Chief Bogo, sensing an opportunity to rid himself of the bouncing bunny.

MAN OF STEEL: BATMAN V SUPERMAN DOUBLE BILL (12A, 294mins) Thursday (March 24) 21:15 (3D)

Judy gathers evidence from concerned wife Mrs Otterton (Octavia Spencer) and implores a con artist fox called Nick Wilde (Jason Bateman) to help her break the case.

Working with an animal who should be her sworn enemy, Judy stumbles upon a grand conspiracy involving Arctic shrew Mr Big (Maurice LaMarche), who presides over the criminal fraternity in Tundratown with his polar henchbears.

Zootropolis is 108 minutes of unadulterated joy, rendered in exquisitely detailed animation.

Vocal performances are flawless, particularly Goodwin as the dreamer with a big heart, who truly believes that anyone can achieve their dreams if they put their paws to it.

A protracted sequence involving a three-toed sloth called Flash (Raymond S Persi), who works Department of Mammal Vehicles, is nothing short of genius.

Hop to it – Zootropolis is the bunny's whiskers.

LIFESTYLE

Top products to inspire you!

Every few weeks I put a call out to my generous PRs for samples and press releases, so that I can test and recommend products to my lovely readers.

I am lucky to be sent some amazing products, many of which I want to share with you now. Here's my pick for March!

JULIETTE ORMAND FOAMING FACE CLEANSER £16
WWW.PROBEAUTYPRODUCTS.CO.UK

I tested this whilst in the shower and loved the consistency. Sometimes with foaming cleansers they can feel a bit dry and leave your skin feeling tight. Not this one, not only did it remove every bit of grime from my muddy walk (yes, I had mud on my face), it left it feeling deeply cleansed but soft to the touch. Suitable for men and women.

M2 FACIAL OIL FREE EYE MAKE-UP REMOVER £29.50
WWW.M2BEAUTE.COM

I'm forever fed up with spending lots on eye make-up lotions, which promise to remove all traces of mascara etc and don't live up to the hype. It's so important to choose a high quality eye make-up remover; I would say it should be up there as one of the most important parts of your cleansing regime. Eyes are delicate, they show signs of ageing more than anywhere else, and so it makes sense to spend on a remover which ticks all the boxes. This one removed my make-up without me having to 'drag' the cotton wool, quickly and efficiently, and most importantly I didn't have that oily residue, that others can give, which makes my sight blurry.

SATURATED COLOUR PERFECT PARTNERS BIRTHDAY SUIT £9
WWW.SATURATEDCOLOUR.COM

For all you pout lovers out there, you will absolutely adore the Perfect Partners 'KISSstick' and a matching Lip Vinyl in Birthday Suit. Simply apply the richly pigmented KISSstick first and then when darkness falls, top up with the glistening, melting Lip Vinyl to make your pout rival any Kardashian! Your lips will get some serious attention with this duo.

L'Occitane EN PROVENCE NEROLI & ORCHIDEE COLLECTION PRICES FROM £7
WWW.LOCCITANE.CO.UK

With essence of orange blossom and extracts of Madagascar white orchid, the new Bath Milk £18 and Body Oil £22 is the latest addition to this delicate range from L'Occitane. Immerse yourself after a long day into a milky bath of feminine notes that transport you to a little cloud of heaven. The soft fragrance is sheer but teases the mind with the playful girly notes. Afterwards, drench your body in the silky oil to leave you smelling lightly fragranced.

AQUA ZINGER £18.99
WWW.IWANTONEOFTHOSE.COM

This vacuum flask is a gadget that I'm happy to say has become a firm favourite of mine. Simply fill the grinder up with fruit of your choice (I used blueberries and strawberries), screw the cup back into the base and then fill the flask with your choice of beverage (I used water). The blades twist to grind the fruit and release the juice into your drink via an internal straw. It's like a portable juicer and a brilliant idea for anyone who's wants to make sure they are getting their dose of vitamins. Not only fruit, but herbs, vegetables, and spices can also be used, best of all it encourages my kids to get some goodness as they actually fight over using it!

ESOCARE ORGANIC BLACK SOAP £5.50
WWW.ESOCARE.CO.UK

I was intrigued to test this black soap, as it's known to be one of West Africa's best beauty secrets. It's a natural source of vitamins A & E and iron, and can help alleviate all types of skin ailments including acne, eczema, and rashes. The secret lies in the soap's ingredients, Plantain skins, Palm Oil, Kernel Oil, and Cocoa Pod Powder. It doesn't leave the bathroom messy and can be used for all over the body, face, and hair.

ELEGANT TOUCH DON'T BE SHEEPISH GLUE ON NAILS £6.95
WWW.ELEGANTTOUCH.COM

These arrived a little too late for my Easter Gift Guide, but are so endearing I had to put them in this feature. The cute chick designs are perfect to give to your girl for Easter, be it daughter, mum or friend and are guaranteed to put a smile on everyone's face.

UKICK TOY £8
WWW.HAMLEYS.COM

Anything that encourages my kids to exercise and get off that Xbox is a winner in my mind. This feathered object was voted Best New Toy at London Toy Fair 2015, and it's easy to see why. It combines both badminton and football into one simple game. The object is to keep the UKick off the ground for as long as possible using any viable means, be it whacking, kicking or hacking it. Great for coordination and balance, this is a brilliant lifestyle tool every kid should own!

Intercounty
Estate & Letting Agents

Meet Intercounty Harlow

At Intercounty Harlow our team, led by Matthew Farrington in sales and Ricci Moseley in lettings, have a wealth of experience selling and letting homes in Harlow and the surrounding villages.

Both Matthew and Ricci live and have grown up in the local area and as your local sales and lettings experts can provide extensive knowledge.

Sales Update

The property market this year has had a positive start. 2016 is showing an increase in activity with comparable levels of properties coming on to the market alongside sale agreed properties.

The noticeable difference between 2015 and 2016 is an increase in the number of new offers being received, as well as an increase in the asking prices achieved. This demonstrates that both buyer's and seller's confidence is still there. House price growth has hit a 17 month high and prices have risen at their fastest rate since July 2014. London had the biggest annual increase followed by the East of England, where prices grew by 10.7%*.

The busiest market for the First quarter of 2016 has been 1 and 2 bedroom properties under £250,000. Competition is strong between investors and first time buyers. Properties are selling quickly and asking prices are being achieved if not exceeded due to a rush to beat stamp duty increases*.

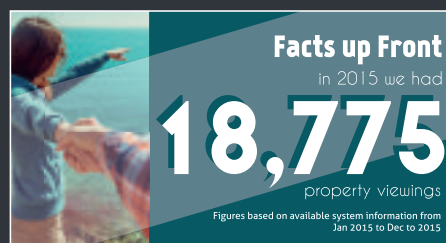

There has also been a significant increase in cash buyers of retirement age purchasing investment property, mainly due to the changes in 2015 allowing access to pension, but also buyers trying to purchase before the 1st April.

We predict a reduced amount of properties coming onto the market. However there is some uncertainty over the involvement of rental investors from the second quarter due to changes in stamp duty and income tax relief that comes into effect from April 2016. This could be good news for first time buyers giving them a better opportunity to get onto the property ladder with potentially less competition from buy to let investors.

Higher rates of Stamp Duty Land Tax (SDLT) (3% above the current rates) will be charged on the purchase of additional UK residential properties for second home buyers and buy to let investors. For example at £250,000 stamp duty currently is 2% of the difference between £125,000 and £250,000 = £2,500. From 1st April stamp duty for 2nd home buyers will be 3% up to £125,000 and 5% of the difference between £250,000 and £125,000 = £10,000 if the purchaser already owns one or more UK residential properties.

Karen Johnson, Lettings Director

*Figures taken from <http://www.telegraph.co.uk/finance/property/house-prices>

Lettings Update

In the latter part of 2015 and the first two months of 2016, the lettings industry has been the subject of significant changes with new legislation being brought in for landlords (highlighted overleaf). The new Stamp Duty charges come in to force in April 2016 on the purchase of second and subsequent properties. The changes in tax relief being phased in over the next four years will make it an interesting time ahead and at Intercounty we have already seen a short term spike in buying activity. This is due to many investors trying to beat the deadline due to the private rental sector continuing to go from strength to strength as the fastest growing discipline in the property industry.

My personal opinion is that landlords will continue to purchase investment property as the long term capital growth far outweighs the short term Stamp Duty increase. However, I do believe we will see the end of the "accidental landlord" whereby a home mover decides to rent their existing property when purchasing a new home rather than selling it. This will cause an even greater shortage of rental property in turn increasing prices. At our Intercounty Bishops Stortford office we saw in December 2015 99.99% of asking price achieved and in January 2016 it was 100.58%*. Whilst this is good news for landlords, I envisage life becoming slightly more difficult for tenants looking to rent. The increase in property prices has made purchasing even more difficult and renting has become a lifestyle choice for many people looking to settle and rent longer term.

Richard Durrant, Lettings Director

Exclusive by David Ward

TOYOTA'S upmarket Lexus brand has made great in-roads into the premium end of the market taking on established giants like BMW, Audi and Mercedes-Benz – particularly so in recent years with a succession of their own new hybrid models.

Lexus has come a long way since its original LS saloon debuted back in 1989 and there has been a variety of coupes, saloons, convertibles and SUVs en route with more recent emphasis on hybrid powered cars like in its sister Toyota range.

But for those of us, myself included, who still prefer a good, old-fashioned petrol-powered compact-styled executive saloon they've stuck with the IS 200 and recent improvements have made it quite an attractive proposition when compared to the sector's model leader, the all-conquering BMW 3 Series.

Lexus has dropped the diesel engine and you're now left with one, two-litre 241bhp petrol powered IS 200t which at a basic price of £31,495 more than competes with its main rival from Munich.

This Lexus is around £1,000 less than the equivalent hybrid powered model and what petrol heads will really appreciate is that it comes with a conventional eight-speed sports direct shift automatic transmission that's simply a joy to use. No worries here about the hybrid's somewhat flawed CVT automatic gearbox which is slower when pushing down the accelerator pedal and a bit noisier too.

That's not to say it's up to the complete sporty driver's satisfaction in my view because it's still not quite up to the exacting level of sports performance of BMW's excellent ZF automatic box but it now runs it a much closer race.

This revised turbocharged IS 200t is no slouch though with a claimed acceleration of 0 to 62mph in seven seconds and a claimed top speed of 143mph and in terms of fuel economy Lexus claim it will top 39mpg on the combined cycle and 30.1mpg in town.

On test I discovered the true consumption over some 400-odd miles of varied road route was around the 35mpg mark which is not bad for a sports performance car with all the extra kit and equipment on board this IS200t has on board.

Complete with paddle shift gear change on the steering wheel and used sensibly the up and down gear change is smooth and swift and even being a lazy kind of driver at times and slotting the gearstick into the automatic D position, allowing the mechanics to do gear changes for you, again the throttle response is instantaneous and positive.

The F Sport test car is a real driver's car and it won't disappoint such sports enthusiasts looking for a premium executive saloon in my view and it comes on big 18-inch alloy wheels with naturally stiffened suspension and it's a car with ample amount of road grip and like the 3 Series has excellent road holding, hardly any body roll all helped along with a nicely weighted steering that again makes it a joy to drive.

This latest version has a slightly wider wheelbase than before, which in turn gives a bit more interior space, and again too this helps make the car drive and sit better on the road in my view. It's also quite a more stylish looking car now than before making it stand out from the rest of the crowd as we say which again will appeal to sports-minded buyers in this sector looking for something different.

Talking of the cabin, which it has to be said is really beautifully crafted everywhere, and again subtle changes the Lexus backroom team have made may seem small but they are significant and the quality and level of standard equipment on board is enhanced.

There is a distinct Germanic feel about the interior too with its well laid out dashboard, controls and quality finish everywhere and for a moment driving this car one could feel that it's much like an equivalent BMW or Audi.

With the F Sport pack the driver will obviously gain more kit on board but at a price with the basic IS 200t coming in at £31,495 but as soon as you add the likes of leather upholstery (£2,000), Lexus Premium Navigation (£1,995) and an excellent sounding Mark Levinson sound system (£1,000) this can creep up to £37,100 as on the test car.

Yes, the hybrid IS200h has lower running costs emitting just 107 g/km as against the test car's 167 g/km but in all honesty it's not such a fun car to drive!

As one would expect though the F Sport version is loaded with safety features as standard that include driver and front seat passenger side and knee airbags, anti-lock brakes, traction control, hill start assist and much more. Plus there are other standard pleasures on board such as cruise control, heated sports style seats, rain-sensing wipers and both front and rear parking sensors.

Verdict: Any driver looking in this premium executive sports saloon sector needs to take a serious look at this latest IS200t because it's certainly a worthy contender up against those longer established rivals.

It has the performance, comfort, quality and style that one would expect and even taking it on with its basic pricing and packaging represents good value for money. Hybrid power may be all the big news from Toyota/Lexus but it's nice to see a traditional petrol-powered on offer here with all the inherent traditions of a sport executive car.

Now then mate, you coming out tonight, everybody's out.

Sorry mate no cash, gutted!!!

Saw Steve last week and he told me everybody's out. You were working again, what's happened there?

Still working but it's zero hours, I've only got 8 hours this week!

Nightmare! Should come work here, I know we are looking for more Field Sales staff, full time with a HP tablet, car, phone & uncapped bonus!

But I only have experience in travel.

No worries they recruit on attitude rather than experience. They have excellent training, top team, can you remember Matt from school? He's here too.

Great how do I apply?

Email over your CV and covering letter To our boss Darren's PA Nicole.
nicole.want@hertsessexnews.co.uk

Cheers mate, I will do it now!

How about I lend you £40 until your first pay day?

Oh...Go on then mate, you're a legend. When are they interviewing?

They are interviewing next week!

Great stuff, got my mojo back now! See you in the station at 7.30pm

Result all round 7.30pm it is!

Local Business Territory Manager £30,000pa OTE

We are currently looking to recruit a full time Local Business Territory Manager, sales experience in publishing preferred but not essential as we offer full ongoing training and support in addition to sales incentives. As Media sales Consultant, you will be required to build relationships with existing clients and secure new business while striving to meet and exceed targets. You will have an agreed customer base and territory area which you will be required to grow and develop through the use of our multimedia portfolio. Candidates will need to demonstrate relevant sales experience and have knowledge of using Microsoft Office programmes (Windows, Excel, Outlook).

If you think you are the person who could make a difference to our business, we'd love to hear from you. Send your CV and covering letter to Nicole want. nicole.want@hertsessexnews.co.uk

Claire Petuleugro YOUR STARS WITH

ARIES MARCH 21 – APRIL 20

I know it hasn't been very easy for you to keep your close ones happy, but aspects suggest that much of what your friends have going on does not relate directly to you. Talks you have this weekend can shine much light on what is really making them unhappy. Use the communicative skills Mercury is giving you to build their confidence. Ring now for a romantic revelation.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 348 65p per minute

TAURUS APRIL 21 – MAY 21

You are unsure of your emotions and this has much to do with the fact that you feel you are being pushed and pressured into what others want rather than what you need. Being honest about your feelings can help you reach a life changing decision. Saturn gives you confidence. Use it to obtain what you really want. Ring now to hear how texts will reveal a secret.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 349 65p per minute

GEMINI MAY 22 – JUNE 21

There is a more social feel to your chart this week which sees you feeling full of energy and enthusiasm for life. A younger person who let you down takes action to rebuild your trust in them and aspects suggest they'll succeed. A family member who didn't want to talk to you now does, but for reasons which could be for their own gain. Ring now to make the most of your future.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 350 65p per minute

CANCER JUNE 22 – JULY 22

Family have news which is sure to shock and surprise you, but it will also prove that you're never too old to start again in life. Someone you thought did not support you in your career is about to pleasantly surprise you with their actions. Professional life gets more interesting for you. Ring now to hear how March can be the month you make your professional debut.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 351 65p per minute

LEO JULY 23 – AUGUST 23

You are going to have to show support and confidence to family this week. They will need you by their side as they start a new adventure. Conversations with family reveal much you did not know about what really went on behind closed doors. A major change to a friend's personal life leaves you on the feeling you should also be making changes. Ring now for more on current dramatics.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 352 65p per minute

VIRGO AUGUST 24 – SEPTEMBER 22

I can see you've had your fair share of stress in recent days and weeks, but you must also acknowledge that you have left yourself open to manipulation. Try to have more self confidence this week so that you do not get pushed into situations you do not want. Someone from past wants to make amends for a wrong they did you. Ring now to make life exciting again.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 353 65p per minute

LIBRA SEPTEMBER 23 – OCTOBER 23

You're finding it hard to balance work and personal issues, but from Tuesday you start to see with ease and clarity what needs to be done to find the happiness you seek. This may mean putting a work colleague's relationship with you into a sensitive situation, but is sure to outweigh any other options. Ring now to hear why you may need to brush up on your foreign languages soon.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 354 65p per minute

SCORPIO OCTOBER 24 – NOVEMBER 21

You have some really big decisions to make regarding your future and you have now realised that you can't make them alone. A dose one is about to pleasantly surprise you with the help and support they give you. With the support you now have, you will not hesitate in making major decisions regarding where you live and how. Ring now so I can tell you what else I see ahead.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 355 65p per minute

SAGITTARIUS NOVEMBER 22 – DECEMBER 20

You have many loose ends to tie up and you'll be dealing with several difficult faces. Your ruling planet Jupiter forces you to ask for more than you want in business, so be aware of all you're signing and committing yourself to please Sagittarius. Family prove demanding but are worth going in to for once. Ring now to hear why it's worth playing a submissive role this week.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 356 65p per minute

CAPRICORN DECEMBER 21 – JANUARY 20

You're finding it difficult to make decisions which will please everyone, so stop trying. You have to think about your long term needs and desires or things will not work out. A gentler approach to a stand off with a family member is the answer to ending this week successfully. A break in your inner circle brings surprise, but is forecast to only be temporary. Ring now so I can reveal more.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 357 65p per minute

AQUARIUS JANUARY 21 – FEBRUARY 19

You are not happy with the distance that has crept into your relationship with a close one. However, it is in your hands and within your power to do something about it. Make the effort to let those you love know how much they mean to you. There is also one relationship which you need to become less reliant upon. Your confidence will soar if you address this. Ring now for more on this emotive

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 358 65p per minute

PISCES FEBRUARY 20 – MARCH 20

Passion is strong in your chart and you act from the heart throughout the coming seven days. This will see an array of dramatic events unfolding and could see some of you Pisceans making a dramatic life announcement. Double check financial sums. It will be to your advantage if you do. Ring now to hear why this is such a

MARK

Vive le France as Will powers to debut trek

IT was a case of vive la France for an intrepid pair of Harlow Running Club members, who competed in events on the other side of the English Channel.

At the Marseille Marathon in France, Will Wall was 129th out of 993 finishers in 3hr 25min 05sec in an impressive debut at the distance.

Meanwhile, at the Bois de Boulogne parkrun 5K in Paris, Andy Kinney was 17th out of 25 in 27:01.

Closer to home, the magnificent Wembley Stadium was the final destination for runners in the North London Half Marathon.

Mark Hayward was 684th out of 6784 finishers and improved his personal best (PB) time by more than ten minutes to 1:37:04.

He was followed by Andy Ramage, 796th in 1:38:34 (PB) and Steve Crosby, 6512nd in 2:43:09.

At the Hampton Court Palace Half Marathon in west London, Debbie Barry was 1046th out of 3029 finishers in 1:52:30 and Jane Evans came home 1634th in 2:07:30.

Jamie Jephcott competed at the Brentwood Half Marathon.

He was 132nd out of 2823 in a superb 1:29:01.

Record

He was followed by debutant Ben Usher (309th in 1:35:09), Nick D'Alton (1228th) in a PB by more than 15 minutes of 1:54:04 and Terry Pike (2333rd in 2:21:07).

At the Stowmarket Half Marathon in Suffolk, Brendon MacLean was 41st out of 390 finishers in 1:31:07.

At the Welwyn Garden City Half Marathon, Justin Patten was 133rd out of 461 in a PB of 1:43:32 and Spencer Brooks was 213th in 1:52:47.

At the Gunpowder parkrun 5K, Laura Jephcott was 54th out of 117 finishers and first female junior in a new HRC U20 record time and PB of 27:28.

His father Jamie was fourth and first Vet 45 in a superb 19:03. Paul Schroder was 32nd in 22:45 and Austin Nyamande, 60th in 28:01.

King James brings Town down

Harlow & District Football League Division Two Cup final
New Town Rangers 1
Parsloe Athletic Reserves 4

A SUBLIME hat-trick from Anthony James was the deciding factor in the Harlow & District Division Two Cup final on Sunday.

Steve Piercy was unlucky not to give New Town the lead in the 15th minute after his header was saved at point-blank range.

At the other end, James lifted the ball over the on-rushing Jamie Hampson, but also over the cross bar.

Parsloe went ahead midway through the first half when James May beat Hampson at the second attempt after an initial block.

New Town went close when Steve Piercy headed wide from a Tony Williams corner.

And they were made to rue this missed opportunity as from the resulting goal kick, James picked the ball up 40 yards from goal, came inside a defender and rifled the ball past Hampson.

At the end of a fast-paced first half Parsloe led 2-0.

New Town's hopes of getting back into the match were undone when Steve Smith was sent off after 40 seconds of the second half for foul and abusive language towards the referee.

Parsloe extended their lead with a moment of individual brilliance by James, who collected a through ball from Frankie Branch, left his marker for dead and clinically swept the ball into a bottom corner.

New Town made it 3-1 from the very next attack. Tony Williams' through ball was met by Nick Williams who finished with aplomb past keeper Jason Hardy.

James had the final say with arguably the goal of the day when he collected the ball 40 yards out and jinked past three defenders before blasting home.

Ooh la la as Rouge get set for final flourish

Lucia wants Essex Premier Cup win as part of quintet

Essex Sunday Premier Cup semi-final

Rouge Returns 1
AFC Pegasus 0

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertsessexnews.co.uk

PETER LUCIA has his sights set on his first ever Essex Premier Sunday Cup silverware - having won the Essex Saturday Cup three times.

Having led his Rouge Returns side into the Sunday Cup final at Concord Rangers FC on May 1, thanks to an 85th-minute winner from Tony Smith against AFC Pegasus on Sunday, Lucia is hopeful his team can pull off an incredible quintet of trophies this season.

But having led Bishop's Stortford, Stansted & District League side Alemtic Athletic to three county cups - in 2005, 2009 and 2012 - Lucia is hoping he can lead Harlow & District Sunday League side Rouge to Sunday Cup glory and end Harlow's 21-year wait for a victory in this prestigious competition.

Maypole were the last Harlow-based team to win the Sunday Cup in 1995.

Rouge could even meet another Harlow team in the final.

Maiden are still to play their semi-final. They will have a home tie against Global.

Lucia, who co-manages Rouge with Stuart Grieves, is all too aware that the Essex Sunday Cup is the one that has eluded him in his 20 years managing teams in Harlow.

"No Harlow team has done it but we could have two in the final this year," beamed Lucia.

"It's a hard one to win. It has been dominated by Ockenden Motors in the last few years but they packed up two seasons ago.

"We have got there not just by luck but a lot of hard work and the will to win," said Lucia.

"We had some fantastic support - I sent out about 150 texts to people, and I'm sure there will be even more in the final."

Lucia also paid tribute to club benefactor John Aken, who has stumped up cash to pay for kits and coach travel to matches.

"I would like to thank John Aken for his sponsorship and enthusiasm. It has really rubbed off on the boys," said Lucia.

There were few chances in a tight first half as the Colchester-based visitors defended well.

James Thomas and Ricky Cook went close for Rouge.

After the break, it was one-way traffic for long spells but Rouge just could not make the breakthrough.

As full-time approached and the prospect of extra-time loomed, Danny Norton missed a gilt-edged chance and you sensed it might not be Rouge's day.

But Smith had other ideas.

Powerful

The Pegasus keeper brilliantly saved a powerful free-kick from Carl Smith, but it proved too hot to handle and Smith reacted superbly to latch on to the loose ball and poke into the empty net.

Rouge have already beaten rivals Maiden twice in the league this season and Lucia hopes this team, who also play at Parlington Sports Club, will make it an all-Harlow final.

Rouge have also reached the finals of the Harlow & District League Cup, Premier Division Cup and Champions League Cup. "We could have four finals in five weeks," added Lucia.

They have won 29 out of 29 matches this term and scored a phenomenal 180 goals, conceding just 28 with top scorer James Thomas notching 40 goals.

Boss eyes revenge and he needs Soham one like you

Ryman North
Maldon & Tiptree 1
Harlow Town 1

THE Hawks will look for revenge at home to Soham Town Rangers this Saturday - the team that ended their 14-match unbeaten run in February.

The match kicks off a busy Easter programme for Harlow Town, who visit Waltham Abbey on Monday (3pm KO).

Danny Chapman's men were set to visit Romford in a rearranged game last night.

Chapman (pictured right) said: "What upset the players more was the performance on the night. They will want to make sure they put that right."

Harlow were slightly fortunate to take a point at Essex rivals Maldon & Tiptree last Saturday.

Harlow went ahead when midfielder Fabian Simms nodded down a corner to Alex Read on the back post, who smashed into the roof of the net on nine minutes before the break.

Harlow could have grabbed a second after the break but centre-half Ibrahima Sonko's powerful header was superbly saved by the Jammers' keeper.

Darren McQueen equalised on 68 minutes for Maldon with a low finish past keeper David Hughes.

The game was held up when Harlow left-back Layne Eadie sustained a foot injury which could keep him out until Saturday.

The hosts were awarded a penalty on 89 minutes when Jared Small was adjudged to have fouled a Maldon player in the box.

But Darren Mills blazed this over as Harlow secured a valuable point on a day when play-off rivals Thurrock and Hornchurch lost, while Cheshunt, Brightlingsea and Tilbury all drew.

Chapman added: "You could look at it both ways. It was an opportunity to gain some ground as Thurrock were beaten, but we got a point back on them."

"It was not the best game. In the first half we worked very hard and deserved to be 1-0 up.

"In the second half we did not work as hard and we conceded a sloppy goal."

Keeper Norris nets in finale

CHAMPIONS Harlow left East Men's Hockey League Division Six South East with their 20th win from 22 matches, as the season ended on a high.

The 4-2 triumph at Chelmsford fourths lifted Harlow after their surprise loss last week.

Top scorer Andy Boughtwood was in defence along with Adam Ottley, while left-back James Morris was moved into goal.

This allowed regular custodian Richard Norris a run-out on the wing and centre-back Kim Harvey moved to striker.

Harlow pressed and within ten seconds of his introduction as a substitute, Solo Castillo slotted home at the far post.

Harlow kept up the tempo and soon doubled their lead as a penalty corner was rifled at captain Ben Light to deflect on to a post and in.

Stand-in keeper Morris was in phenomenal form, keeping the hosts at bay with a string of top quality saves before one cruelly slipped in via a penalty corner on the stroke of half-time.

Midway through the second half Chelmsford levelled, but 'keeper' Norris deflected in a Harvey penalty corner to restore the Harlow lead.

With five minutes left, Joe Symonds touched in Ottley's penalty corner for 4-2.

Delays cannot thwart Ladies

LOGISTICAL problems meant Harlow Ladies started their last Essex Hockey League match of the season, away to Southend, with only seven players.

However, this did not stop Harlow securing a 2-0 victory to finish on the same number of points as their ninth-placed hosts.

Goalkeeper Laura Hay arrived just in time to defend a short corner, making a save with her first touch of the ball.

Harlow had a goal disallowed in the first half, which finished goalless.

After the break, the visitors took the lead through Liz Green's solo effort which left the Southend keeper with no chance.

Southend were next to attack - Petra Trimble and Anita Shearman defended stoutly, while brave Samantha Care blocked one effort with her throat.

Georgina Esterhuysen-Smith on the edge of the D fed Green and the in-form striker doubled her tally to seal an impressive win for Harlow as they concluded a difficult campaign.

No train, no gain works for Rams

Director of rugby's playing policy paying off

London Division Three NE
Lowestoft & Yarmouth 10

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertsexnews.co.uk

'NO train, no gain' is the new motto for Rams director of rugby Lee Harron as he cracks the whip to try and secure a top three finish for his side.

The impressive win away to Lowestoft and Yarmouth came after Harron told his players they would not play first team rugby if they did not turn up for training in midweek.

Fourth-placed Harlow are now four points behind third-placed West Norfolk.

Both sides have two games left this season, but the Rams will need to secure bonus point wins from their remaining games and hope Norfolk slip up in their final game away to Southwold.

Harron said: "We have been able to put out teams that have been able to train and prepare together as a team for the last few weeks, having implemented a no train, no play policy.

Achieve

"This has developed true competition for places and a greater understanding of what we are trying to achieve."

Despite the long journey to Lowestoft, Harlow started well.

The visitors drove L&Y back some 40 yards with Dan Evans scoring the first try.

This was converted by fly-half Danny Smith.

Good interplay by backs and forwards allowed Dale Stalley to break and feed inside to his brother Ross to go over and score.

L&Y were getting frustrated and giving away a series of penalties, allowing Harlow to relieve pressure and push into home territory.

From another strong line-out drive and a phase of possession, Dale Stalley beat a defender and finished well in the corner.

Smith added the conversion for a 19-0 lead.

As Harlow's pressure mounted, a Lowestoft player received a yellow card for persistent infringements.

Harlow were then dealt a huge blow with back row players James Clarke and Evans both receiving head injuries, resulting in them both leaving the field.

Just before half-time a series of quick plays by the hosts allowed them to get in behind the Harlow defence and score an unconverted try.

A poor start to the second half by Harlow allowed the Suffolk side to put pressure deep into the Harlow 22.

From a couple of quick plays the hosts scored an unconverted try to reduce the gap to 19-10.

Clarke and Evans returned to the fray and allowed Harlow's defensive patterns to work again with notable efforts from Charlie Robinson, and brothers Scott and Ross Stalley.

However, this work was undone by some over-eager work at the breakdown which took the pressure off Lowestoft.

Harlow kept their grip on the game and will be disappointed not to score a fourth try and come away with a bonus point.

"Mention should go to debutant Jack Christy who pitted himself very well in the front row with some notable ball carries, defensive work and turnovers," added Harron.

"This was another excellent performance by Harlow who can hopefully finish well for the season in the league and the cup."

There is a break from league action this weekend, but the Rams visit Wanstead on April 2.

Royals reign over Hawks

A POOR 64-38 home defeat at the hands of East Herts Royals continued Harlow Hawks' difficult Herts County Basketball League Division One campaign.

Harlow did not turn up in the first quarter, or indeed for most of the match, scoring only five points initially with two points from Tom White and a three pointer from Shab Niaz.

Royals posted 21 points in the first quarter in the face of incredibly lacklustre Hawks' defending.

There was a slight improvement in the second quarter with Hawks scoring ten points.

However, Hawks were still 19 points down and the game was getting quickly out of reach.

Lee Morris and Dan Cohen were the only contributors as Hawks went into half-time 37-15 down.

Hawks won the third quarter 15-10, but it was not enough to reduce the overall deficit.

Niaz and Cohen combined for 13 points and a bucket from player-coach Saul Friedner were scant consolation.

The Royals were 47-30 up heading into the final quarter.

White and Morris notched points in this period, but Royals outplayed the Hawks in every department and took a comfortable win.

HARLOW HAWKS (points in brackets): Cohen 13, Niaz 9, White 8, Morris 6, Friedner 2, Whytock 0, Burgess 0.

Title crunch match looms

EPHING Upper Clapton RFC warmed up for their title crunch match away to second-placed Old Cooperians a week on Saturday with a 17-12 home win against Southwold which secured promotion.

It kept the London Division Three North East leaders two points clear at the top.

With three games remaining and two teams going up, the Thornwood Common-based side are now promoted to Division Two North East, but are determined to go up as champions.

They are just two points ahead of Cooperians.

Clapton established a healthy half-time lead with a try from Luke Brewin, while Kurtis Knightley converted this and added a penalty.

The visitors scored a converted try to make it 17-7 but Brewin's second try of the afternoon, meant Southwold's late unconverted try was superfluous.

HARLOW Hawks Basketball Club hosted their first ever all-girls match against Oakland Wolves last weekend.

The Hawks do not have a large enough number of girls in one specific age group, so several of the girls from a couple of age groups were put together for this game.

Some of them played together for the first time and for others it was their first time playing a competitive basketball match.

Despite a heavy loss (21-60), there were many positives to be taken from the game.

"The girls applied themselves well and competed throughout the game," said coach Shab Niaz.

After a nervous first half which saw a number of girls finding their feet and adjusting to the playing level, the second half saw Hawks looking a lot more comfortable in their play and having plenty of chances to score.

They were unable to convert most of their opportunities, but were taking shots when they got the chance to take them.

The girls involved were from the club's U11, U14 and U17 age groups.

"Previously the girls have played in mixed teams, so this was a very exciting moment for them to play in an all-girls match," said Niaz.

The club are looking for more girls to join the club and if there is sufficient interest, may consider entering an older girls team into a league for next season.

This is likely to be an U16 team. Any girls that are currently in school Years 8-10 and interested in playing in a girls' team should go to www.harlowbasketball.com for more information.

Mitchinson's England beat world's best

STEVEN MITCHINSON and his England team retained their British Isles Series trophy in Llanelli, Wales.

The four-team indoor bowls tournament saw England finish top of the table with a 100 per cent record of three wins from three.

Mitchinson (pictured top), who is a member of the Harlow-based Tye Green Indoor Bowls Club, played alongside Neil McKee (Northamptonshire), Andrew Walters (Worcestershire) and Jamie Chestney (Devon) in his rink.

England took on hosts Wales in their first match last Thursday morning, which was the opening game of the tournament.

After a close start, England built up a head of steam and pushed on to a very big win of 150-86.

Mitchinson's rink recording a convincing 30-11 win.

On Friday, England faced Ireland.

England led 59-57 at the halfway stage after ten ends.

But England put in a strong finish and ended up with a convincing 132-107 win.

Mitchinson's rink won their match 26-18 against an Irish rink skipped by Ian McClure, the Irish team captain.

Meanwhile, Scotland had won both their matches to set up a winner-takes-all finale.

England established an early 14-1 lead but the Scottish team, containing two of the world's best players in Paul Foster MBE and Alex Marshall MBE, hit straight back scoring 11-1 on the second end.

England eventually ran out comfortable 122-100 winners.

Mitchinson said: "Our rink was up against Alex Marshall and he proved just why he has won six World Indoor Singles titles as time and again he drew a shot or played our bowls out of the head as he led his rink to a 19-6 win against us."

IT'S LADIES' DAY AS HAWKS LAND CUP

Final win start of quadruple mission for hopeful boss

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertssexnews.co.uk

HARLOW Town Ladies boss Grant Palmer hopes his team's Essex Women's Trophy final victory against Wickford Town is a platform to further success.

The Hawks defeated their rivals 5-1 at Saffron Walden Town FC's ground, The Meadow.

The team was only launched this season, but have enjoyed a phenomenal campaign and are well set to pull off an incredible quadruple.

Palmer said: "I'm ecstatic.

We're still in two other cups and still in the league, so hopefully it's the first of many.

"It's our first year as Harlow Town Ladies so, in terms of generating interest in women's football and promoting Harlow Town Football Club as a base for women, it was really important and will be well-received in the town."

Harlow have won all 12 of their league fixtures this term and have only been beaten once competitively - by FA Women's Premier League outfit Charlton Athletic - since their inception, and they started superbly.

Within 60 seconds, Philippa Stephens had struck the woodwork.

Christie Seakens also hit the bar as Harlow dominated the early stages.

Shock

But it was Wickford who took a shock lead when Louise Balding found a top corner of the net with a shot, but Harlow soon equalised.

In the 14th minute Abbie Bensted lashed home from ten yards out.

Bensted bagged her brace in the 41st minute, expertly lobbing Wickford custodian Julia Tween.

"I think our reaction was good," said Palmer. "I think we needed them to score; we hit the post and the bar early doors and didn't take our chances, so it probably woke us up and we did what we needed to do."

"Their goal was the turning point. Until then we played within ourselves, but then we realised that we had to work harder."

"Our second goal was also a superb goal and gave us confidence going into half-time."

Harlow made it 3-1 two minutes into the second period.

Stephens embarked on a superb solo run that eventually saw her round Tween to slot into an empty net.

Victoria Hill beat Tween for the Hawks' fourth goal.

The scoring was completed four minutes from time. Hill fed Stephens, who flashed in her second goal from close range.
